Congress opens week with aim of adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is entering a clean-up, get-away week, hoping to clear a heavy work calendar and recess until Jan. 21.

One of the first items on the Senate's agenda is to confirm one of its own members, Ohio Republican William B. Saxbe, as attorney general.

President Nixon nominated Saxbe for the Cabinet post after Elliot L. Richardson resigned rather than carry out an order to fire Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor.

The Senate also was starting off the week with action on a $5.8 billion foreign aid appropriation bill passed by the House.

The measured includes $2.2 billion requested by Nixon to help Israel replace weapons lost in its October war with Egypt and Syria.

The legislative gamut for Congress in its adjournment drive also ranges from defense funds to emergency fuel conservation and home rule for the District of Columbia.

And still in dispute between the two branches of Congress are different versions of legislation providing a two-stage, 11 per cent boost in Social Security benefits.

Another trouble spot is an energy bill that would confer sweeping authority on the President to ration gasoline and take other steps to conserve scarce fuels.

The House added to differences with the Senate over the emergency measure by writing in an amendment to ban allocation of fuel for busing children past neighborhood schools.

The Senate previously had rejected an anti-busing amendment, and Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said that ironing out of this controversy may delay adjournment.

Senate-House conferees also will have to reach accord on a defense appropriation bill, the biggest of all money measures. It totaled $73.3 billion as it passed the Senate, $836 million less than the House voted.

The emergency fuel allocation bill is just one of several measures growing out of the energy crisis awaiting final action before adjournment. Another would set up a centralized agency to deal with the problem, while another would lower highway speed limits.

The Senate will vote Tuesday for a third time on cutting off debate on a measure to restore a U.S. embargo on Rhodesian chrome imports in accord with United Nations sanctions voted in 1968.

Two attempts to halt the debate and force the bill to a vote fell four and two votes short of the required two-thirds majority.

And a third attempt may be made to break a filibuster against a bill to put the legal services for the poor program under an independent government corporation. Supporters of the bill missed by only one vote Friday in getting the necessary two-thirds margin.

21 feared dead as Arab terrorists hijack plane

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas bombed an American plane in Rome's airport today, killing at least 21 persons, police said. The terrorists escaped to Athens in a hijacked German jet with an undetermined number of hostages.

They began their attack at Rome with a submachine gun fusillade that police said killed an unknown number of bystanders. Authorities said the total killed may reach 30.

Greek police said the hijacked aircraft landed at the main Athens airport and the guerrillas negotiated with Greek authorities for release of two Palestinians held by the military-backed Greek government.

The hijackers threatened to blow up the Lufthansa Boeing 737 with all the hostages if the two were not released, an airline spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the Arab guerrillas informed the control tower that one of those aboard was "seriously injured and may die."

Police said all 11 passengers in the first-class section of a loading Pan American World Airways jetliner were killed when two of the terrorists ran up two boarding ramps and threw incendiary bombs inside.

The two returned and joined their companions aboard a Lufthansa Boeing 737 with a German crew of five.

The plane appeared headed for Beirut before it landed in Athens and sources at the Beirut International Airport had said the hijackers were requesting "urgent preparations for an emergency landing."

The informants in Beirut said the pilot of the commandeered plane had radioed that the craft had a damaged door that prevented him from flying at a high altitude.

The bomb hurled in Rome ripped two holes in the Pan American Boeing 707 and set it afire. One gaping hole was visible in the roof of the forward cabin and another in the rear.

Police sources said all 11 passengers in first class were dead. They said two of the terrorists may have been wounded by police fire.

Police at the San Camillo Hospital said 10 persons, including two Americans, were brought in for treatment from the airport. Dozens of ambulances and fire trucks went to and from the airport

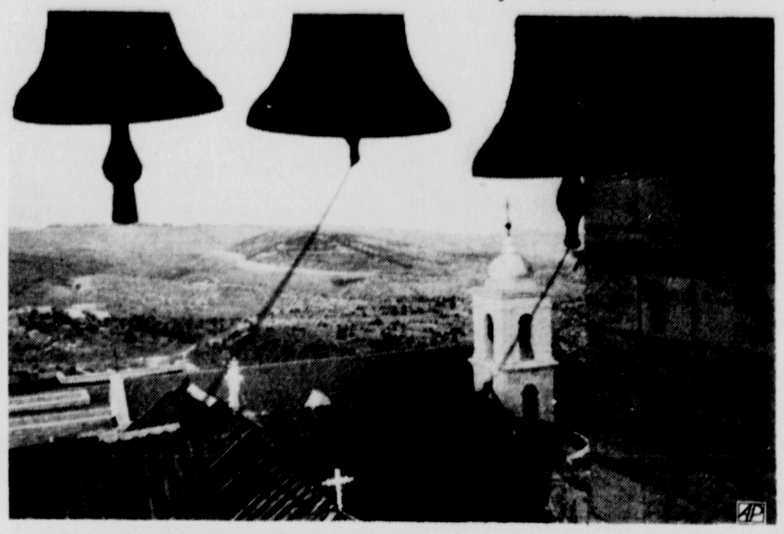

Police said there were four hijackers who described themselves as Palestinians over the commandeered jetliner's radio. Lufthansa officials in Frankfurt said the crew included a pilot, copilot, two stewardesses and a woman ramp agent.

In Bonn, the West German Foreign Ministry set up a "crisis staff" to watch developments.

An official said the terror began after the Arabs had walked through a transit lounge to the baggage control and were asked to open their luggage for a routine security check.

They did, and pulled out submachine

Heavy snow, gusty winds hammer East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A taste of winter choked much of the East today with heavy snow, freezing rains, sleet and gusting winds.

Although winter doesn't start officially start until 7:08 p.m. EST Friday, six inches of snow covered Washington, D.C., Sunday night and from two to five inches fell from the Virginias to eastern New York.

Freezing rain and sleet extended from eastern Virginia to the southern New England coast today, and rain dampened the Carolinas.

Heavy snow warnings were posted from Virginia and West Virginia to eastern Pennsylvania, where as much as 12 inches of snow was expected before the current storm subsides.

Winter storms warnings were issued for New Jersey, New England and eastern New York and a heavy snow watch for western New York.

A whiff of warm air moving through the northwestern plains produced snow in parts of the north central continent. Temperatures were in the 40s in many places in Montana, Wyoming and Idaho.

Snow showers lingered along the western shore of Lake Michigan, and below zero temperatures were reported at spots in Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan.

Rain showers were scattered over the northern Pacific coast and the northern Rockies.

Generally fair weather prevailed in the central and southern Rockies and from the western Great Lakes to Texas.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 15 at Pellston, Mich., to 65 at Key West, Fla.

Metzenbaum likely Senate pick

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate vote expected today on the nomination of U.S. Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, to be attorney general has intensified speculation in his home state over who will succeed him.

Two Ohio newspapers said Saturday they had learned Cleveland businessman Howard M. Metzenbaum will be appointed to fill the seat.

Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan reportedly had been leaning toward a "caretaker" appointment, to avoid the looming Democratic primary battle between Metzenbaum and former astronaut John Glenn. Both are announced candidates for the position in the 1974 election.

The governor's office had no comment Friday on reports in the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Dayton Journal-Herald.

Speculation was increased because Saxbe's colleagues in the Senate are believed certain to confirm him overwhelmingly.

The Senate Judiciary Committee gave Saxbe its stamp of approval Thursday by a vote of 15-1.

Two weeks earlier, the Senate voted 75-16 in favor of a bill reducing the salary for the justice post in an effort to remove a possible constitutional bar to Saxbe's appointment.

In a copyrighted story, The Plain Dealer said Gilligan decided on Metzenbaum during a meeting Thursday with his advisers and informed the millionaire publisher and industrialist at the governor's mansion.

A source close to the governor was quoted as saying Gilligan considered a caretaker appointment a "copout."

The Dayton Journal-Herald said Metzenbaum's appointment was "almost certain." Its copyrighted story was attributed to unidentified aides who attended the Thursday meeting.

Saxbe is expected to resign officially early next month if he is confirmed. His term runs to Jan. 3, 1975.

Both Glenn and Metzenbaum have announced they want the Democratic nomination next spring. Gilligan has been reported under pressure from county party leaders and big labor who support Metzenbaum.

Running as an incumbent in the party primary and next fall's general election is expected to boost the chances of Gilligan's choice.

The only dissenting vote among Senators on the Judiciary Committee came from Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., who believes Saxbe is constitutionally ineligible.

The Senate's earlier vote came on an administration sponsored measure to cut the attorney general's salary from $60,000 to $35,000.

The Constitution bars members of Congress from being named to federal posts for which they pay has been raised during the member's term of office.

Saxbe was a Senator in 1969 when Congress raised the pay of cabinet members from $35,000 to $60,000.

Many Senators who voted against passage have stated they approve of President Nixon's choice, but do not believe the pay reduction legislation makes the appointment constitutional.

Nixon withheld formal nomination until the congressional ruling on Saxbe's eligibility.

The Judiciary Committee's approval of the nomination came after only two days of hearings.

Energy pinch for real, Simon says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's energy chief says his biggest job is persuading the public that the energy crisis is real.

William E. Simon, head of the Federal Energy Office, said Sunday the crisis will continue even if Arab nations resume oil shipments to the United States.

"We have been on a collision course in energy requirements and demands for many years," he said. "In 1970 production peaked ... but energy needs will double between 1973 and 1990."

In an interview on the CBS television and radio program "Face the Nation," Simon said the federal government must persuade the public the crisis is not the creation of politicians and oil men.

He praised citizen cooperation in the shortage, but he said the public still needs to end its wasteful ways.

In other energy-related develpments:

—President Nixon signed into law Saturday a bill that would establish year-around daylight saving time beginning Jan. 6. Nixon estimated the extra hour of daylight in the evening would save 150,000 barrels of oil this winter.

—Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said the government could encourage competition and expand capacity by building seven petroleum refineries and selling them to the public.

—Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said that $1.2 million in contributions to President Nixon's reelection campaign were made by half the members of the National Petroleum council. The council advises the federal government on oil policy.

High Court nixes class action suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today blocked the use of class action suits to collect for damages to the environment.

In a 6 to 3 decision, the court said each party complaining of damages must satisfy federal court rules requiring proof of at least $10,000 in damages in order to file a suit in federal court.

The ruling came in a suit brought by two Vermont couples against the International Paper Co., alleging damages to lakefront property from discharges at a company pulp and paper manufacturing plant.

They had sought to sue on behalf of some 200 other lakefront landowners in addition to themselves.

Writing for the majority, Justice Byron R. White said the suit could not be considered a class action because the other landowners had not satisfied the $10,600 damage requirement.

8 Persons die in plane crash

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An official of a firm requested to carry out repairs on a cargo plane which plowed into a residential area says he notified the aircraft's owners the day before the accident that the work had not been done. Eight persons died in the crash.

Richard J. Sekman, owner of Sekman Aviation repair facilities, said H.B. Robinson, business agent for the firm owning the plane, had arranged for the craft to be kept at Sekman's repair facility at Miami International Airport.

Sekman said a pilot who flew the cargo plane a month ago had ordered extensive maintenance and repairs.

But Sekman said he made it clear to Robinson that because of manpower problems he had been unable to do the work before the plane left the Sekman repair hangar Friday.

Douglas Drifus, an investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board, said efforts to contact Robinson had been unsuccessful and that the FBI was seeking to find him so that he could be interviewed.

The plane, bound for Venezuela with 21,000 pounds of Christmas trees, crashed seconds after take off Saturday night. Among those killed were the three crew members amd five residents of the residential section one mile east of the airport.

Sekman said it was possible that independent mechanics were hired to work on the aircraft during weekends while it was at the hangar. He said, however, that he and his employes never saw mechanics working on the plane.

Roy Jones, a weekend guard at the hangar, said some work was done on the plane by unidentified mechanics.

Jorge Areces of Sweetwater said Sunday he was secretary-treasurer of Aircraft Pool Leasing Inc., which was formed six months ago to purchase the 15-year-old Lockheed-Constellation plane from a Panamanian firm.

Areces said he knew some repairs were needed on the plane and assumed they were completed before Saturday's fatal flight.

William Neckman, the company's president, said: "I just feel horrible about it (the crash). All the necessary information will be supplied later."

Eva Thomas, 59, said she was getting ready for bed when the plane slammed into the ground across the street.

"I had just reached for my nightgown when it sounded as if the whole world exploded," she said. "I looked out and saw a solid sheet of fire."

A 30-man federal investigation team planned to comb the block-long wreckage site today, searching for clues to the crash.

Some trucks roll again after shutdown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Truckers were still "parkedin" at least three Ohio truck stops early this morning as rigs began to dot the state's major highways.

A driver at a Franklin, Ohio rest area said several hundred haulers would remain shutdown indefinitely in the southwestern Ohio lot until speed limits were raised and the price of diesel fuel reduced.

Meanwhile, most drivers who were idle for the past four days supporting the shutdown were reported to have left truck stops by the scheduled end of the protests at midnight Sunday.

But a survey of Ohio Highway Patrol posts around the state showed truck traffic was "normal to light" for a Sunday night and not much of an increase over the past four days.

Truckers at the Junction Truck Stop in Strasburg, Ohio in Tuscarawas County just off Interstate 77 continued to flag down moving trucks, the patrol said.

A dispatcher at the New Philadelphia post said, "It looks like it's starting all over again." There was no violence reported.

At Coal Grove along Ohio's major southern border route, a patrol official said drivers were "still pulling them over." A guard at the Plaza 52 truck stop in Lawrence County said rigs were still "parked" there.

Trucker Carl Bray at the Franklin truck stop said drivers would stay indefinitely until their protest cries are answered.

Bray said a meeting was set for Tuesday night for truckers, and invited public officials, the governor and trucking firm officials.

As late as Sunday night, Bray said, "We've got this thing under control. There isn't a thing running between here and Washington, D.C."

Around Ohio, highway officials reported late Sunday normal to light truck traffic in the Toledo area; Mansfield along I-71 was normal; in southwestern Ohio, I-75 and I-71 were reported very light; the Ohio Turnpike, normal, and I-70 near Cambridge "starting to pick up."

Most protest leaders at Ohio's focal point of the shutdown, the Shenandoah truck stop near Cambridge, drove away from the area by late Sunday.

"It's just about lost all its steam," said Mike Saunders, one of the leaders who spent the past 10 days at the stop. "We thought all the company drivers would stick with the independents on this, but they didn't.

"It was a shame. We could've done so much," he said.

Saunders promised a longer shutdown in mid-January if the federal government doesn't relax current energy-related restrictions.

One major truck stop in West Virginia remained shut down today as maverick truckers continued a boycott of the open road in protest to rising fuel oil prices and reduced speed limits.

The three-day nationwide protest ended Saturday at most other locations and the majority of the truck stops on Interstate highways through the Mountain State reported they were doing business as usual today.

But the Charleston West truck stop along I-64 at Winfield was shut down again Sunday afternoon when tractor-trailer rigs blocked fuel pumps.

Employes at the truck stop said there were an estimated 200 trucks parked around the diesel pumps this morning. The drivers were standing around quietly, talking and drinking coffee.

The drivers reportedly told employees of the truck stop they would stay there until Tuesday.

No reason was given why the boycott was renewed Sunday.

At the Windmill Truck Stop on I-70 at Wheeling, a Bridgeport, Ohio, trucker said fellow drivers had decided to go back to work Monday and give officials in Washington a month to take some positive action on the truckers' requests.

Ed Venesky, an eight-year veteran of trucking, said more than 100 truckers he had talked to along I-70 were willing to wait until Jan. 15 for some action. He said if nothing happened by then "we'll be back out and we'll go for broke."

Accord reported on Geneva talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended his seven-nation Middle East peace mission today and announced "complete agreement" on opening the Geneva peace conference.

He completed more than 10 hours of meetings with Israeli leaders today and then flew to Lisbon for talks with Portuguese Premier Marcello Caetano.

Before departing Lod International Airpot, Kissinger told newsmen that both the Israelis and Arabs have agreed that the opening phase of the Geneva talks should deal with the separation of Israeli and Egyptian forces on the Suez Front.

"We have been informed that if the other parties will attend (the conference), that Israel will send a delegation," Kissinger said.

The American secretary earlier said that he was optimistic the Geneva talks, originally scheduled for Tuesday, could get under way by Friday.

He described his 6½ hours of discussions with Premier Golda Meir Sunday night as "very friendly, very warm, very constructive" and told newsmen, "We reached complete agreement about the procedures and terms of reference of the opening of the conference."

Kissinger arrived in Israel Sunday afternoon. After completing discussions with Israeli officials today he prayed at a memorial to six million Jews killed during World War II.

The predominant topic of Kissinger's talks in Israel reportedly was the role to be played by the United Nations at the peace conference. The Arab states, enjoying the support of the majority in the world body, want the talks held under U.N. auspices. Israel prefers United States and Soviet supervision.

Israel also is concerned about the fate of an estimated 120 Israelis captured by Syria during the October war. Mrs. Meir said before Kissinger's arrival that Israel would not deal with Syria at the Geneva conference unless Syria handed over a list of the prisoners of war and allowed Red Cross representatives to visit them. She added that this would not prevent Israel's dealing with Egypt and Jordan at the parley.

Informed sources in Damascus said Kissinger was unable to obtain the POW list from President Hafez Assad during his visit to the Syrian capital Saturday. But Israel's refusal to deal with Syria should have no effect on the first stages of the Geneva conference since the first order of business is to be negotiations for the withdrawal of Israeli and Egyptian troops along the Suez Canal.

Kent State jury selection slated

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The federal government will begin its grand jury inquiry here Tuesday into the 1970 Kent State shooting in which four students were killed and nine others wounded.

Federal Judge Thomas Lambros is scheduled to begin the selection of the 23-member jury Tuesday morning.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Fred C. Coleman of Cleveland said he hopes jury selection is finished in the morning so justice department lawyers can begin presenting evidence in the afternoon.

Robert A. Murphy, a 36-year-old government lawyer who summarized the FBI's 8,000-word report on the shootings, heads the government's four-member team. Murphy is chief of the Criminal Section of the U. S. Justice Department's Civil Rights Division.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger announced last week that the Justice Department had decided to call a grand jury to investigate whether the civil rights of those involved had been violated.

"Based upon information developed in our recent additional investigation, I am persuaded it is necessary to call witnesses before a grand jury before we can conclude the department's investigation into the circumstances surrounding the fatal shootings...," Pottinger said last week.

"This action does not mean that we have made a decision to seek indictments," Pottinger added. "This action is taken with the concurrence of Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork."

Last week Murphy said he would ask the grand jury to subpoena 10 to 15 initial witnesses, mostly National Guardmen.

The shootings occurred on the Kent State campus May 4, 1970, when Ohio National Guardmen opened fire during an antiwar demonstration.

Shortly after the incident former Gov. James A. Rhodes convened a state grand jury. The state investigation exonerated the guardmen, but returned indictments against 25 others. One of those indicted persons was found guilty of a misdemeanor and two others pleaded guilty to riot charges. The other 22 indictments were dismissed for lack of evidence.

Former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell denied repeated attempts for have the federal grand jury investigation of the incident and in August, 1971, he closed the Justice Department's books on the case.

Atty. Gen. Elliott L. Richardson reopened the case earlier this year, saying he saw "some areas where an additional investigation is desirable."

guns and hand grenades. They then grabbed a security officer and five policemen, sprayed several plate glass windows with their guns and walked toward the Lufthansa plane.

But before boarding, two terrorists ran up to the parked Pan American jetliner and threw at least one bomb at it.

A Pan American spokesman said the jet had stopped over on its flight from New York to Beirut and Teheran, Iran.

The shooting panicked travelers and airport employes. Police evacuated all airport buildings after the attack at about 1 p.m.—7 a.m. EST.

The terrorists struck as three Arabs were being tried in Rome courts on charges of plotting to strike down an Israeli airliner with rocket launchers. They were arrested during a raid on an apartment near the airport last Sept. 5.

That attack was to have coincided with the anniversary of the Palestinian massacre of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympic games Sept. 5. Five Arabs were arrested, and two were released pending a later trial.

There were reports that one of the three on trial was an important member of the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

Courthouse hour change considered

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning agreed to discuss new hours of operation for the Courthouse with all section and department heads who have offices in the Courthouse.

Chairman Robert Mace said the board is considering opening the Courthouse from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. with a noon hour from 12:30 p.m. until 1:30 p.m.

Mace said the change in hours of operation is being considered since the federal government's latest requirement that all clocks be turned ahead one hour. Mace said the new time would make it difficult to bring office temperatures in the Courthouse to an acceptable level.

Presently, the Courthouse opens at 9 a.m. and closes at 4 p.m.

The clocks are scheduled to be changed Jan. 6.

THE BOARD also reviewed a petition seeking improvement and repair of the Indian Creek drainage ditch in Wayne Township near Good Hope.

The petition was submitted by William Shepard, Willard Parrett and Dr. Joseph Herbert. The ditch affects a total of 36 landowners.

Commissioners scheduled the viewing date for 1 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 17. The first public hearing on the proposed improvements will be held at 2 p.m. Feb. 4 in the commissioners' officer.

The board appointed two persons to the Fayette County Mental Retardation Board. Mrs. James Beatty was reappointed and Mrs. William Fletcher was the other choice. Both will serve four-year terms from Oct. 31 until Oct. 31, 1977. Mrs. Fletcher will replace Mrs. Jane Mossbarger, who has moved from Fayette County.

In other matters, Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 21 reports for the week.

Cold northerly winds pumped into the state overnight, dropping daybreak temperatures down into the teens. Dayton was the low spot with 12 above and Cleveland warmed by the Lake Erie waters recorded 22.

As the weather patterns change tonight, the cold weather was to gradually loosen its grip on the state. A weak high pressure system was to being some clearing and slightly more moderate temperatures to the state Tuesday.

Highs today were expected to remain in the upper teens and low 20s with lows tonight plunging to a few degrees above zero.

Tuesday will be partly cloudy with temperatures moderating somewhat by afternoon to the 20s and low 30s.

Mostly cloudy and cold with a chance of snow Wednesday through Friday. Highs all three days in the low 20s and upper 30s. Lows in the teens to the mid 20s.

Driver smothers fire with flour

A Washington C.H. man whose car motor caught fire when the carburetor back-fired in front of his residence could have done more harm than good when he put out the flame before firemen arrived.

John W. Mason of 1530 N. North St. used baking flour to subdue the flames and Lt. Richard G. Reed of the Washington C.H. Fire Department warned this is an explosive substance which should not be used to put out fires.

Reed said that baking soda can be used on a gas fire if a proper extinguisher is unavailable but never flour.

The incident occurred at 11:50 a.m. Saturday.

Damage was set at $25.

Stock list posts gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were higher in early trading after the opening was delayed an hour because of a winter storm in the New York area.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead nearly a point, and advancing issues moderately led decliners on the New York Stock Exchange.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Dorsey Corp., unchanged at 4, followed by Western Union, unchanged at 10⅝, and General Motors, up ¾ at 48¼. AT&T rose ¼ to 48¼N and Schering-Plough Corp. fell ¼ to 66¼.

The stock market rallied Friday in heavy trading after a member of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's delegation said that there was a 50-50 change that the oil embargo would end by January.

The Dow industrial average gained 15.22 points to close the week at 815.62 as nearly twice as many issues advanced as declined in trading that topped 20 million shares on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Friday rally came after three days of heavy declines in the market, in which the Dow average had fallen more than 50 points.

Cambodian Reds overrun position

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Khmer Rouge insurgents today drove government forces from a position 10 miles from here in the second day of attacks along the capital's southeastern defenses, the Cambodian command said.

A military source said many Cambodian soldiers were missing after government forces abandoned Kien Svay and fled 200 yards north to the Mekong River. Survivors were rescued from there by navy gunboats.

The command reported five other insurgent attacks within 20 miles of Phnom Penh along Highway 1, the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway that runs parallel to the Mekong. The government said the insurgents were probing for weaknesses in the capital's defenses.

Military sources said 30 government troops have been killed and 62 wounded, and a number of others have been reported missing in skirmishes along the road in the past week.

Observers say the fighting indicates insurgents are preparing for a dry-season offensive. They say the Khmer Rouge would like to drive all government forces from the highway so they could ambush shipping along the river without interference.

Other fighting was reported 13 miles north of Phnom Penh on Highway 5, the road to the rice fields in northwest Cambodia; along Highway 4 to the sea, and at Kampot, on the coast 85 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

In Saigon, the United States asked the International Commission of Control and Supervision to investigate a Communist attack Saturday on an unarmed helicopter in which an American officer and a South Vietnamese crew member were killed.

It was the first American protest to the four-nation commission since it was established by the January cease-fire.

The U.S. note charged that Capt. Richard Morgan Rees, 32, of Kent, Ohio, was "gunned down in cold blood" by Communist soldiers as he stood with his arms raised to show he was unarmed. Rees and three other Americans stationed in Thailand were investigating the crash of a U.S. helicopter seven years ago to determine if the remains of any Americans were at the site of the crash.

Farm profits to be 2nd best ever

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the government's top agricultural analysts said today that 1974 net farm income might vary as much as $3 billion simply because of the weather but that profits still will be second largest on record.

C. Kyle Randall, chairman of the Outlook and Situation board in the Agriculture Department, said a recent estimate of 1974 net farm income was representative of "more than just excessive bureaucratic caution."

The department earlier this month predicted farmers next year would net between $20 billion and $23 billion, second only to an estimated record income in 1973 of more than $25 billion.

Randall's comments were in a speech prepared for the USDA's annual National Agricultural Outlook Conference which runs through Wednesday.

"If growing and harvesting conditions are adverse, 1974 crop output would be reduced and farm prices would likely exceed 1973 levels," Randall said.

"In the face of strong demand, net farm income would fall only about $2 billion. Conversely, good growing conditions and larger crops would place pressure on prices and farm income could drop about $5 billion in 1974," he said.

Randall said he also made the projections on an assumption that farmers will have enough fuel, fertilizer and other input materials to increase production next year.

Given enough of those ingredients, farmers could produce record crops of wheat and livestock feed grains next year, Randall said.

Pension funds must be paid in Findlay case

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Sargent Industries Inc. of Los Angeles, Calif., has been ordered by a federal judge in Toledo to pay back funds into a pension program for employes of a subsidiary which moved out of the state.

U.S. District Court Judge Nicholas Walinski ruled Thursday that the firm pay more than $1 million in back pension allocations from the time Gar-Wood Industries, Inc. of Findlay moved to Wayne, Mich. in October 1971.

The pension program covered 237 workers, many members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers Lodge 1194.

The original complaint was filed in August 1971 in a county common pleas court. Later, after a jurisdictional battle, it was moved to a federal court.

New model Vice President

One of the most interesting aspects of Gerald R. Ford's elevation to the vice presidency is how different he is from his immediate predecessor. There are similarities, too, mostly in their views on public questions. But it is the differences that are most striking, and in our judgment most promising for the future well-being of the country.

Spiro T. Agnew was very much an unknown quantity to the general public when he became the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1968. He had been a county official, then governor of Maryland. The nation at large knew virtually nothing about him.

By contrast, a great deal is known about Vice President Ford. During a quarter of a century in the House of Representatives, for the past several years as minority leader, he has become a familiar figure. Not a figure of any signal distinction, not one known for generative action and battles for great causes, but one much in the public consciousness.

Agnew was celebrated, in some circles notorious, for his indulgence in bitter alliterative rhetoric. His speeches featured serene delivery of harsh judgments - outraged moral judgments, a good deal of the time - on aspects of American life he found distasteful. He is a man with a taste for fancy talk.,

Ford's taste and performance run to directness rather than eloquence. Even those who disagree most deeply with his views cannot fault him for displays of verbal pyrotechnics. This well known technique for obfuscating issues or replacing reason with emotion is not to be found in his arsenal.

Above all it is noteworthy that Ford differs from Agnew in the area of probity and straight dealing. Agnew was brought down by disclosure of low-grade wrongdoing in money matters involving violation of the public trust. His successor has emerged all but unscathed from the most searching investigation any candidate for vice president has ever undergone.

Many take issue with Ford's outlook on this or that important question of public policy. Few dispute the judgment that he is a man of straightforward integrity, an American politician in the best sense of the word. Few doubt that he means with all his heart to uphold the Constitution and do his best for America, as he promised in his remarks upon being sworn in. Whether or not he measures up as first-rate presidential timber, the nation could do much worse than have Gerald R. Ford as its vice president.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

NATO and the Soviet navy

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is an artful man, thoroughly schooled in the history of Nineteenth Century diplomacy. But in trying to deal with the European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, or NATO, he is up against something that would have stumped the combined brains of Talleyrand, Metternich, Otto von Bismarck and any other Nineteenth Century luminary that might be mentioned.

NATO was originally set up as a means of securing Western Europe against a frontal attack from the Communist East. A child of the Nineteen Forties, when the Cold War was raging and the status of West Berlin was the big issue (Berlin was the "bone" in Soviet Russia's throat), NATO was neverr designed to cope with the emergence of the Soviet Union as a great sea power capable of dominating Western Europe from both the northern and southern flanks.

IF NATO didn't exactly telegraph its punch, it at least telegraphed its defensive stance. No Soviet General Staff in its right mind would bother to tangle with a NATO ground force armed with tactical nuclear weapons once the prospect of controlling the sea approaches to Italy, France and West Germany had become a practical reality.

The new standard of living in Western Europe depends on oil, and oil from Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Libya moves by water. So the emergence of the modern Soviet Navy, as detailed in the latest edition of "Jane's Fighting Ships, becomes the relevant document in any discussion of nato's shortcomings.

What possible leverage does Kissinger have to bring the nations of the Common Market to cope with the problem of NATO's flanks?

The presence of American ground forces in West Germany is hardly relevant; a Western Europe deprived of Middle Eastern oil wouldn't be able to fight a ground war for more than a few weeks anyway. What NATO should be talking about now is the problem of sea power in the Eastern Mediterranean, the Indian Ocean, and the Persian Gulf.

It should be worrying about the status of the Suez Canal and the possibility of neutralizing the narrow waters that separate Europe from Asia Minor at the Dardanelles. It should be concerned with the storage of bunker oil in Cape Town and other South African ports.

The ability to close the entrance to the Baltic Sea should be a paramount consideration, and the fate of the port of Londonderry in North Ireland, which is a base that might be needed in the event of submarine threats in the North Atlantic, is another item for a NATO agenda. If Kissinger cannot talk to West European foreign ministers with any assurance that the U.S. plans to keep a Navy second to none, with Trident missile submarines coming off the ways at critical intervals, he will have little to offer.

KISSINGER, in Brussels to "stress that the Atlantic Alliance remains the cornerstone of American foreign policy," talks about "a new act of vision." But a United States that is unable to project its sea power into the Eastern Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean lanes leading to the Persian Gulf can have no vision that will appeal to Western Europe. Sea power and sea power alone is vital to a guarantee that even the oil of sympathetic Iran will reach Western industrial nations.

If the Soviets can cutt off the oil spigots in the Middle East simply by deploying missile cruisers and atomic submarines in superior force through the Red Sea, Western Europe must, in the long term, seek an accommodation with Moscow.

The "Finlandization" of Western Europe is in the cards if the U.S. refuses the challenge to become the world's strongest blue water power. Adm. Mahan and Teddy Roosevelt would have understood this; the question now is whether Henry Kissinger is as conversant with the works of Mahan as he is with the deliberations of the Congress of Vienna in post-Napoleonic Europe.

Maybe Western Europe doesn't want to be saved from a Russian Bear whose suffocating hug will come from the sea. If that is true, history will be rewritten without benefit of NATO, and Henry Kessinger will live in the books as the last defender of a lost cause.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, DEC. 18

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
A splended day for clearing away recent differences which, if allowed to crystallize, could become real problems. Abit of frank talking could do the trick.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
Judgments of the a.m. could not only be a bit "cloudy" but, if based on overoptimism, could have disappointing results. Your instincts can be trusted after 3 p.m., however.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
A good day for looking into unusual offers — but with a watchful eye. Especially favored: writings, travel, cultural pursuits.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
You know what you want now, so keep after it. Brook interference from no one and insist on the privacy you need to carry out your plans.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Avoid overtaxing yourself — a tendency now. Temper your ambitions and desires with common sense.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
A bit of news received unexpectedly could have a happy impact on your finances; may concern a sound but long-range investment proposition.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Stellar influences excellent! If projects seem to have been going away recently, now's the time to try again. Imagination and ingenuity stimulated.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
New opportunities indicated in many fields — but especially where monetary interests are concerned. A splended time for consolidating your position in this respect.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Don't discuss financial or domestic problems with friends or associates. Some situations are best kept "in the family" — especially now.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Indifference could spoil what should otherwise be a good day. Good opportunities available, but you'll have to seek them out. They won't be left on your doorstep.

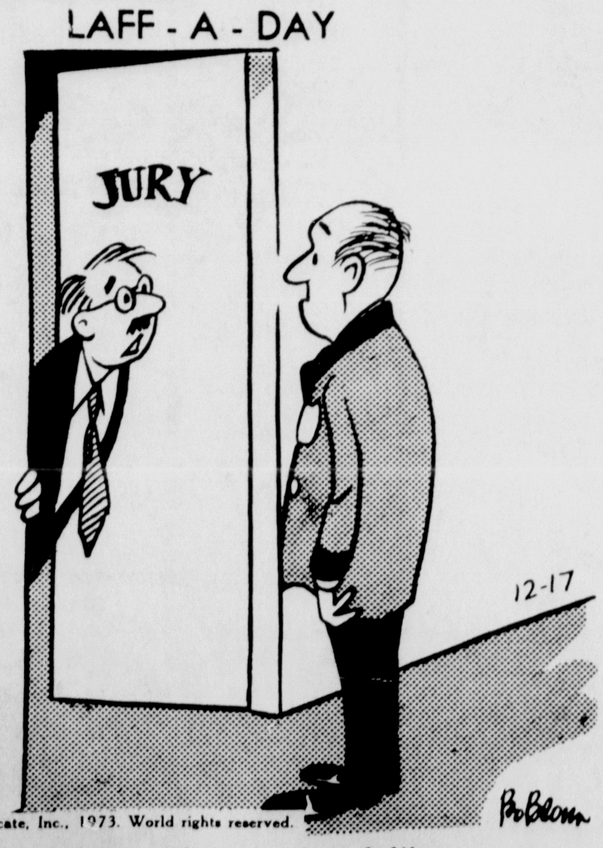

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
With your keenness for detecting flaws and your good humor, you can solve practically all of the "little" quandaries waiting to trip the unwary.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Planetary influences encourage both long-pending and new ventures. Your innate intuition and foresight should be especially keen now.

YOU BORN TODAY are innately energetic, can be a "ball of fire" when the urge takes over; are concise, skillful and effective in endeavors. You were born to do "big" things, are never satisfied with the mediocre. You are highly perceptive and inventive; would make a brilliant business executive, head of a corporation or financier. Your gift for mediation and your powers of persuasiveness make you an outstanding arbiter or negotiator; are also helpful assets to a legal career. In the professional world, you could also choose science, music, literature or playwrighting as a life work. Curb tendencies toward selfishness and too great a desire for comfort and luxury.

Although President George Washington chose the site for the White House, he was never an occupant. John Adams, second President of the U.S., moved in November 1800.

Hal Boyle . . . Martial double-talk drill

NEW YORK (AP) — The art of double-talk reaches its flower in marital conversation.

Double-talk is saying one thing while actually thinking something else. It is the salve of civilization and, of course, without double-talk marriage would be unendurable. If married people started speaking only the truth to each other one fine morning, by nightfall half of them would be divorced — or dead in cold blood.

Here are a few typical examples of marital double-talk. The quoted remark of the speaker is followed by what he really was thinking.

"You look like you had a good sleep last night, dear." — God, why do all women look so homely in the morning? They all come unglued overnight.

"Why don't you shave before going to bed sometime, darling, instead of after you get up? You'd be able to start to work sooner." — And I'd feel less like I was sleeping with a warthog all the time.

"You look pretty peaked, Harry." — Did you have a four-Martini lunch and spend the rest of the afternoon chasing your secretary around your desk?

"You look a little weary yourself, Martha." — Taking catnaps on a sofa all day long must be real tiring to a woman.

"There is no reason at all for you to worry about how your new dentures look. They look simply fine." — It's their sound effects that drive me crazy.

"Your complexion is even prettier now, Grace, than it was the day I led you to the altar." — But why did you have to have two $1,500 face lifts to get the job done?

"It was very thoughtful for you to suggest going to a restaurant tonight, Harry. I did feel like eating out." — And now, my little cheapskate hubby, I'm going to wreck your evening by ordering the $10 steak instead of the $4.50 dinner special.

"When I ask you what you want for Christmas, Harriet, please don't tell me you really don't want anything special." — That means I always have to buy you something that leaves me in hock until April.

"There must be 1,001 ways for a marriage to turn sour, dear, but I'm convinced that there is only one small thing that made our marriage go wrong." — It's you, fathead.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Sister has plenty to hide from fiance

DEAR ABBY: This problem is my sister's. She is a very pretty 45-year-old widow with nine kids. She lives in Naples, Italy. I showed her picture to a widower who lives in Jersey, and he said he wanted to write to her. (My sister was born in the U.S.A. and speaks both English and Italian.) Well, to make a long story short, they corresponded, and he sent her a ticket to visit him here. It was love at first sight. The problem is, my sister told him she had only two kids!

He is going to Naples to marry my sister, and he will surely find out how many kids she has. What do you think he will do when he finds out the truth?

My sister is afraid to tell him. Should I? This is a mess I can't see my way out of.

A SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Tell your sister if she doesn't tell him how many children she has, YOU will, because you feel responsible for having brought them together. And if you helped your sister "hide" seven kids, shame on you.

DEAR ABBY: What's happened to people? Nobody in business gives anything away any more. At Christmas time, in order to show that they appreciated your business, the milkman used to give you a pretty kitchen calendar with the dairy's name on it. The cleaning man would give you a pretty note pad with a pencil to keep by your telephone. (Okay, so it had their telephone number on it.) My beauty parlor used to give me a small bottle of shampoo or perfume, and my grocer used to give my children candy.

Now, nobody you patronize gives you anything. In fact, THEY expect you to give them something. Why?

OLD TIMER

DEAR OLD TIMER: It's one of the penalties of "prosperity." Some others are poor service, inferior quality, and shortages.

DEAR ABBY: My wife has three sisters and two brothers who got together and gave their parents a Christmas gift, a three-month vacation in sunny Florida, at OUR home. (Without even consulting us, I might add.)

My inlaws just called from Montana to give us the good news that the "other children" presented them with two round tickets to Gainesville, good for a three-month stay, and they said that WE would be delighted to have them as our house guests.

Abby, her parents are not easy to get along with. We could take them for three weeks but NOT for three months! They interfere when we discipline our children, and take sides if my wife and I have a disagreement. My wife is more upset over this than I.

If they stay here for three months, we will either end up in the divorce court, or there will be two more cases for the psychiatric ward. What should we do?

UPSET IN FLORIDA

DEAR UPSET: You and your wife had better quickly set her parents straight. Teli them frankly that your time limit for houseguests is three weeks.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Excluding the efforts of disc jockeys and politicians, radio humor these days is as rare as an open gas station on Sunday. But there's always an exception.

A syndicated exception is the National Lampoon Comedy Hour, which kicked off in mid-November and now is creating aural confusion once a week on nearly 100 radio stations in the United States.

What prompted the show?

"Greed," said Michael O'Donoghue, editor of National Lampoon magazine, a sharply satirical publication.

O'Donoghue, who serves as creative director of NL's radio proceedings and helps other staffers on the magazine write and perform the show, got serious for a moment.

"What started it for me was that I'd gotten a little tired of putting out a magazine for three years," he said. "I thought it'd be fun to do something different."

It turned out, he added, that this particular something caused a lot more work than envisioned, mainly because NL's troupe spends a lot of time dashing from studio to studio, recording in one, adding sound effects in another and editing it all in yet another.

"We're working 100-hour weeks," he groaned.

Fortunately, he said, Lampoon almost has finished building its own recording studio. When it's completed, the troupe will be able to tape and edit the whole show there and greatly reduce their long hours of dashing about and waiting for studio space.

What is the program like?

"It's 60 minutes of mirth, merriment and mindless hostility," O'Donoghue said. Then he got serious again. "Actually, it's very much the magazine translated into sound.

"It's very fast and staccato, like a radio 'Laugh-In.' It's quite different in pace from the old style of radio. I've listened to that kind and it's really slow.

"I mean, Fibber McGee just walks around in his living room for five minutes."

O'Donoghue, 33, said three basic types of performers appear on the show—Lampoon writers and editors; specialists who do off-screen "voice-overs" for radio and TV commercials, and professional thespians, many drawn from Lampoon's hit off-Broadway show, "The Lemmings."

How's the main response to all the shows aired so far?

"It's just begun," he said. "We have one marriage proposal to Anne Beatts"—a regular on the show—"who is our token woman. That's it."

Corsica is building a future based on new farms and more visitors.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Poker Face On The Bench?

How neutral does a judge have to be in conducting a trial? That was the issue in The Case of the Smiling Judge.

A man had been found guilty of assault, and his attorney appealed to a higher court on the following ground:

"Just as one of the defense witnesses was telling his story, the judge broke into a smile. The implication was obvious: he thought the witness was lying. Although the judge told the jury not to be influenced by his smile, the damage had already been done. The jury got the message and brought in a verdict of guilty."

However, the appellate court refused to set aside the verdict. The court said the judge's smile was just too minor an element, in an otherwise fair trial, to make the entire proceedings null and void.

OF COURSE, a trial judge is supposed to be as neutral as possible. Ideally, he should keep a poker face at all times, since his facial expressions may well speak as loudly as words.

But the law also recognizes that judges, being only human, cannot be in total control of their emotions. Thus, another appellate court decided it was "most natural" for a judge to grin when a man named Ananias was sworn in as a witness.

On the other hand, a verdict may indeed be overturned on appeal if the trial judge made his feelings too convincingly clear.

In another case, involving a deadly weapons charge, the judge kept referring to the accused as a "graduate of Sing Sing." Again, the jury's guilty verdict was carried to a higher court on grounds of judicial misbehavior.

This time, the verdict was thrown out. Criticizing the trial judge for letting his feelings get out-of-hand, the appellate court said:

"The function of the judge is to preserve the rights of both the people and the accused, not to insure victory or defeat for either (side)."

Lottery panel pushes integrity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The five members of the State Lottery Commission have promised to conduct all meetings publicly to help assure integrity in Ohio's newest venture into legalized gambling.

David F. Leahy of Cleveland, the chairman, said "We have to keep everything out in the open if we expect the public to respect the integrity of this operation."

Another commission member, Richard S. Rust of Cincinnati, put it this way at the panel's organizational meeting in Columbus: "Faith in this commission and the lottery is the prerequisite to the success of this whole operation."

Ohio Perspective

Columbus newsmen questioned the members after they held their first session—with Gov. John J. Gilligan sitting in—at the governor's mansion, with reporters excluded.

Mrs. Bernice MacKenzie of Canton, another member, called it "a get-acquainted session" and insisted the private meeting was for the purpose of agreeing on a chairman to avoid possible embarrassment.

"We didn't want to come here and have someone turn down the nomination. That just makes common sense," Mrs. MacKenzie told the press at the first formal session in the governor's cabinet room. Leahy was elected without discussion or opposition.

Leahy, a retired executive of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said he and the other members were "starting from scratch" and intended to study lottery operations in the eight other states that have them.

"We're going to pick and choose from the best," he said.

"In a way," he said, "It's like opening a new store. You have to be sure about your personnel, your location, and all the other things that make a successful business."

Leahy said he realizes the commission members are going to be under pressures, not only in the selection of an executive director and a site for state lottery headquarters, but also from consultants and people wanting to sell lottery tickets.

Anyone seeking employment or financial gain from the lottery operation, Leahy said, will be subject to "a thorough review, a presentation, and another review" before a decision is made. All this, he said, will be done out in the open.

The chairman indicated it may be months before the first tickets are sold. "We're not going to be stampeded. . . we're going to have the best lottery in the nation," he said.

JUNIPERPERPER

The Elf Who Couldn't Do Anything Right

CHAPTER 8
By Bob Boyle

After lunch, instead of napping Juniperperper walked into the recreation room of Santa House and watched Sunny Syn Fish entertain some of the elves.

The fish poked his head out of the water and blew a stream of water right on Juniperperper.

"Hey, what are you doing," said Juniperperper as he and the other elves laughed

"That's his way of saying, Hello," Santa explained. "Now watch him."

Sunny Sun Fish started swimming around the bowl and then, very unfish like, he turned over on his back and did the backstroke. He then jumped out of the water and grabbed a piece of bread which one of the elves held up.

"He's a real clown," Santa said.

"Well," Santa said. "It's time to get back to work. After that workout, I'm sure Sunny Sun Fish needs a rest, too."

Santa put his hand on Juniperperper's shoulder and said, "Okay, little fellow. It's off to the toy fire engine shop for us."

"Gee," Santa," he replied. "I'm scared now. I sure hope I don't mess things up in the toy fire engine factory."

"I'm sure you won't, Juniperperper," Santa replied. "That little error in the bicycle shop could have happened to anyone on the first day on the job. Just don't worry about it. I'm confident that you'll do okay."

Santa and Juniperperper entered the toy fire engine building and Juniperperper's eyes popped.

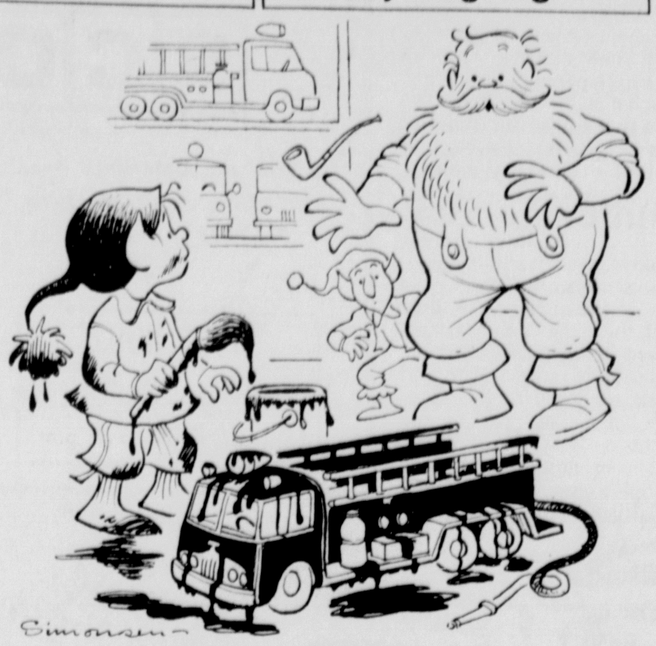

"Gee, Santa," he said. "I've never seen so many toy fire engines in my life. There must be thousands and thousands of them."

Santa called over Jasper and said, "Here is Juniperperper."

"Now take Juniperperper to the workshop," Santa said. "and let him start assembling the toy fire engines."

"Okay," Jasper said, and the two elves went off together.

"Here we are," Jasper said. "Here are the wheels, the steering wheels, the toy light and the toy siren. Put them all together and fasten them to the engine and we'll be all set. Do you have tools?"

"What did I do wrong Santa?"

"No, I don't," Juniperperper replied. "What can I use?"

"Use the ones on the bench," Jasper replied. "That's what they are there for. Now, lots of luck. I must make my rounds and I'm sure when I get back you'll have the toy fire engine all assembled."

When Jasper left, Juniperperper thought, "I sure hope I do this right."

He got the wheels and placed them.

He took the tiny steering wheel and put it on the engine.

He attached the little siren

He placed the little red flashing light

"Mmmm, it looks good," he thought. Then he looked at the shelf and saw a can of paint.

"Boy, oh, boy, I know what I'll do," he thought. "I'll paint the fire engine."

He reached over the bench and got a brush and began to paint.

He painted the wheels.

He painted the steering wheel.

He painted the siren.

He painted the light.

When he was finished he looked at his work and thought, "Gee, this looks beautiful. Santa will be so proud of me."

Then Jasper came into the room.

"My goodness," he yelled. "What happened here?"

Jasper ran to the red phone, picked it up and said, "Santa you better come over here right away. We're having an emergency."

Lickity split, Santa ran to the toy fire engine factory. "What's wrong, what's wrong?" he said as he entered.

"My, oh, my, oh, my," Santa said. "I've never seen anything like that in my life."

"What did I do wrong, Santa?" Juniperperper asked.

"Well, Juniperperper," Santas aid. "For one thing, we don't paint our fire engines black. They should be red. And, another thing, we don't paint over the light. And, we don't paint the siren or it wouldn't work. And, the toy fire engine should have four wheels, not three.

"Oh, Juniperperper, I'm sorry," Santa said. "But I don't think you're ready for the toy fire engine shop, either.

"Let's go back to the house, and we'll see what we can do for tomorrow."

"Well, you're from the Magic Snow Forest, so I bet you are an expert on skiing. So tomorrow I'll put you in the ski factory. And just so things go right I'll put you in the test area. That means you'll ski all day."

"Swell, Santa," Juniperperper said. But he really didn't mean it. He didn't have the heart to tell Santa he couldn't ski.

'Christmas in Toyland' Y-Teen dance theme

'Christmas in Toyland' was the theme for the annual holiday dance of Washington Senior High School Y-Teens, which took place Saturday evening in the school cafeteria. The cafeteria was decorated in a Christmas motif, with red, green and white streamers and snowflakes suspended from the ceiling.

A lighted Christmas tree was in one corner with toys underneath, in keeping with the theme, "Christmas in Toyland." A large Santa and reindeer was in the entrance way where Y-Teens and their guessts arrived. Of the 184 present, the girls, in their long formal gowns, and the fellas, in formal attire, were very pretty.

Miss Janine Begin is Y-Teens president. Special credit was given to Pam Hart and Jackie Johns, for the decorations. Miss Sharon Kellogg, Y-Teens adviser, was assisted by Miss Doppleb and Miss Karaffa, teachers. Several parents were chaperones for the evening. The sophomores were in charge of favors, which were candy canes with horse heads. The Junior Y-Teens were in charge of refreshments, cookies, sandwiches and red and green punch.

Gasoline shortage hits road 'oasis'

SALEM, Ill. (AP) — About a tankful of gasoline south of Chicago is an oasis in the desert of Interstate 57. The signs say: "Salem, gas-food-lodging, next right."

But on Sunday, the cluster of service stations, diners and a motel around the interchange might as well have been a mirage.

Despite President Nixon's plea for Sunday closings of gas stations, two of the three service stations were open. But they were doing so little business they were losing money — even with gas selling for 51.9 cents a gallon.

At the Coffa Cupee Cafe, waitresses Kay Spencer and Carolyn Gray tended eight customers scattered among the 58 seats. Normally the place would be packed, they said.

"Seventy-five per cent of our business is off the interstate," Mrs. Gray said. "You can see what it is doing."

"We used to be open 24 hours, seven days a week," Mrs. Spencer said. "Now we close every night at 10 except for Fridays and Saturdays. The boss has had to let half the help go, and he's cut the inventory by half."

Leon Sullen, 26, running the Standard station next door, said: "The interstate's dead."

Sullen checked his sales for the morning and found he had sold about 400 gallons by midday. He doubted he would pump 800 more that day.

Before Sunday closings, he pumped about 3,500 gallons. Two weeks ago, the first Sunday after the President made his request, the station dispensed 400 gallons.

Next door is a Texaco station. George Brown, 54, has been pumping gas for 17 years but has closed his station on Sundays.

"This Sunday closing is really doing what they want it to do," he said. "It cut our business right half in two. It will save millions of gallons of fuel. I'm in favor of closing."

Codie D. Guthrie, manager of the Holiday Inn, said Thanksgiving and Christmas bookings, plus steady business from salesmen, have helped him ride out the ripples of the fuel crisis. But he's noticed drop-ins and tourists aren't showing up.

"I feel that it will affect business," he said. "But I won't be able to tell until after the holiday."

City crews to install meters in new Main St. lot

The Washington C.H. street department will start installing parking meter posts in the new city parking lot, E. Main St., this week.

Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department, said that job heads the list for street workers this week.

The Park & Shop parking lot, purchased by City Council at its meeting last Wednesday, has a total of 54 parking spaces.

The city street workers will also be clearing brush from alleys and working on the Belle Aire drainage ditch.

Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County Engineer, said county road crews will be doing ditching work along the York Road in Perry Township, and cutting brush along various county roads. Wagner said county crews also will be occupied with snow and ice removal.

State Highway Department workmen will be occupied with ditch work on Ohio 41-N and possibly on old Ohio 753, according to Eugene Fitzpatric, superintendent for the Ohio Department of Transportation in Fayette County.

Fitzpatric said state crews also will be berming on Ohio 753, south of Good Hope and cutting brush in various locations. He said three men are still manning an electricade (flashing arrow) at the I-71-U.S. 35 interchange, and the state trash crews will also be in operation.

New process used to trap sulfur in coal

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — Researchers at West Virginia University are working with a process that combines lime with pulverized coal to trap polluting sulfur in coal ashes.

The process, known as Sulfurtrain, is being developed in WVU's Coal Research Bureau by technician William H. Buttermore. Other processes to remove sulfur from coal usually occur before burning or trapping it in smokestacks after burning.

In Buttermore's experiments, as the coal burns the calcium in the lime combines with the coal's sulfur to form calcium sulfate. It, in turn, is left behind with other inert materials in coal and forms ash.

Buttermore says the process has been successful on a laboratory scale and he hopes to be able to apply it to commercial operations, such as coal-fired electrical generating plants.

Goldwater raps House members

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has called for the House leadership to "shut up or put up" in the consideration of impeachment proceedings against President Nixon.

In an interview with the Christian Science Monitor published today, the Arizona Republican and former presidential candidate said it is imperative that consideration of impeachment be concluded rapidly.

"They're (members of the House Judiciary Committee) not playing around with the Republican party and the Democratic party — they're playing around with the American people," Goldwater said.

He criticized Nixon for failing to move quickly enough to dispel doubts about the President's innocence in the Watergate affair.

"He chose to dibble and dabble and argue on very nebulous grounds like executive privilege and confidentiality, when all the American people wanted to know was the truth," Goldwater said.

If the President had openly discussed the issue, "I think Watergate would have been history by now and Mr. Nixon would be way back up on the popularity poll," Goldwater said.

The President may have been slow to respond to the Watergate issue because of his hesitancy to accept advice from others, the senator said.

"The President, I think, thinks of himself as the supreme politician in this country. And being a loner, I think he sits by himself and tells himself what he's going to do.

"Now we went through this gesture period of having congressmen and senators down to see him, but it seems to have ended. And this is what I was afraid of — that it would be a one-pitch goal and that would end it.

"And as a result, he's not getting advice. That's his problem. He's not getting it. And when he gets it, he doesn't listen to it."

Gal rides horse through Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Riding a horse 50 miles in 19-degree weather on a crosscountry path including Cincinnati's slums in post-midnight hours was "just a good opportunity" for a youthful school teacher.

It was also the last fling for country girl Jan McConner while the 23-year-old biology instructor adjusts to city life.

After her 17-hour romp was over Sunday night, she said, "I'm not a bit sore, just my feet.

"In an endurance ride like this you have to walk the horse a lot and city pavement is tough on the feet."

The Salem, Ohio native has lived with horses since she was 10 in the rich, rolling farm country of eastern Ohio. She even stabled her gelding, Jadi near the campus while attending Miami University at Oxford.

Since moving into a Cincinnati apartment and launching a teaching career, "I just didn't have the opportunity to ride anymore.

City life is really nice but it doesn't have the space or the peace of the country," she said. "That's why I decided I'd have to sell Jadi."

Trouble began when Jim Moore of New Richmond, Ohio showed up at Jadi's boarding barn last week. Jadi wouldn't budge.

So, Jan decided to ride him. "It was a good opportunity," she said, "I've always wanted to take a cross country ride."

The route ran 50 miles from Butler County northwest of Cincinnati, through the city of 452,000 and 17 miles to the southeast along the Ohio River.

She made the first leg Saturday—about 23 miles to her apartment. Neighbors stared. They thought it odd to have a horse tied all night to the shrubbery in front.

Early Sunday before daybreak, she was off again through the city, clip-clopping through a number of high crime areas.

"A policeman stopped me and kept asking if I knew what I was doing," she said. "He had some kids in the cruiser he'd arrested and they cracked up."

There were a few scary moments.

Once Jadi ran off breaking a bridle, cars slammed on brakes to avoid hitting them from the rear. She had to walk him across a half-mile viaduct with a whistling train moving underneath.

"One funny thing happened," she said. "There was this drunk staggering down a street singing. All at once he saw me, shut up, did a double take, and straightened up and walked off just as straight as you please."

She said her motives for owning a horse were not necessarily ecological, although she believes in conservation as a biologist.

MT wins 77-73, stays atop SCOL

TWO OF THE TWENTY-TWO — Jeff King (34) released the ball over Mike Sharkey (41) for two of his 22 points in Saturday nights game between Miami Trace and Hillsboro. Panthers won 77-73. Waiting for the rebound is Steve Mowery (22), Roger Jewett (33) and Kevin Bailey (23).

Reiber, King lead Panthers in third straight SCOL win

By DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Although the crowd was scarce this Saturday night for basketball at Miami Trace high school, plaudits were heeped upon both teams by the few fans in attendance, as Miami Trace ignited in the fourth quarter to swipe it's third South Central Ohio League win 77-73 from a run-and-shoot Hillsboro.

Three quarters had passed by and Miami Trace was trailing 57-53 when the action started flowing in the Panthers direction. Two minutes clicked off the clock in the final period before the scoring pace was picked up by Miami Trace's Phil Skinner. Skinner hit on two shots from the charity stripe with 6:37 left in the fourth quarter.

From that moment, Hillsboro got one point from the foul line and the Panthers collected five unanswered points before Hillsboro's Mike Sharkey hit on a seven foot jumper to bring the score 61-60 Panthers favor. A favor that Miami Trace would never relinquish again as Hillsboro lost it's second SCOL game of the season.

Miami Trace opened the first quarter with a 10-3 lead but Hillsboro reeled off 9 straight points on steals, utilizing the full court press, to take the lead 12-10. High scorer in the SCOL Dave Persinger, scored a quick bucket followed by a layup from Jeff King to put Miami Trace back in front but the lead didn't last long.

Hillsboro's leading scorer, and now possibly the leading scorer in the SCOL, Kevin Bailey struck the nets for a blitzing eight points in less than three minutes to give Hillsboro a 24-18 first quarter lead.

Miami Trace poured on the defense in the second quarter with a full court trap press. The press worked well in the early moments of the second stanza but Miami Trace turned the ball over just as much as they collected it. Bad passes and three second violations doomed the Panthers in the period before intermission and the score was knotted 39-39 at halftime.

Third quarter action had Hillsboro's remarkable shooter Bailey, pouring in points from every imaginable spot on the court to give the Indians a 57-53 lead heading into the fourth quarter.

The trap press by Miami Trace really became effective in the final period as Hillsboro could manage only 16 points compared to 24 points for Miami Trace. Continually Hillsboro coughed the ball up due to the press put on by the Panthers.

Although the press was most effective by Miami Trace, the fine shooting of Randy Reiber and Jeff King kept the Panthers in the game on points. Reiber's smooth shooting jumpers fell through the nets for 25 points and King countered with 22 on close in shots from well positioned rebounds.

An amazing statistic was formed in this tightly fought contest. Both the Panthers and Hillsboro connected on 30 of 74 field goals. The difference in points lay at the foul line. Miami Trace put together 17 of 26 and Hillsboro tallied on 13 of 20 shots from the charity stripe.

Rebounds went in Miami Traces favor, 45-34 with Persinger, Reiber and King collecting the majority of missed shots for the Panthers.

REACH A LITTLE HIGHER — Randy Reiber (42) stretches for a rebound against a Hillsboro player. Miami Trace out rebounded Hillsboro 45-34. Reiber grabbed a handful of rebounds but also contributed 25 points to lead the Panthers to their third SCOL victory. Eyeing the action is Hillsboro's Roger Jewett (33) and Miami Trace's Jeff King (34), Dave Persinger (54) and Dave Steinhauser (32).

Four pro grid teams grab playoff berths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland Raiders are in the National Football League playoffs for the sixth time in seven years. And one reason is they were ready when Denver Coach John Ralston gave it the old college try with a trick play he used when he coached at Stanford University.

And while things went wrong for Denver in its bid for the club's first playoff appearance, everything went right for Buffalo's O.J. Simpson in Buffalo's 34-14 victory over the New York Jets. Simpson became the first man to rush for 2,000 yards in a single season — and he even picked up two yards after the game was over when NFL statisticans rechecked and found an error.

Denver was trailing 14-10 in the third quarter of its game for the American Conference West title at Oakland and was without starting quarterback Charley Johnson, who was injured, when Ralston ordered a run off a fake punt-on-four down with the ball on the Denver 48. The play was stopped for no gain, and Oakland moved quickly to its clinching touchdown in a 21-17 victory.

Three other teams gained the playoffs on the final day of the regular season — Cincinnati outlasted Houston 27-24 to win the AFC Central; Dallas blasted St. Louis 30-3 to win the National Conference East, and Washington topped Philadelphia 38-20 to earn the NFC wild-card berth.

Next weekend's playoff pairings are:

—Saturday: Washington at Minnesota, the NFC Central Division winner that trounced the New York Giants 31-7 Sunday, and Pittsburgh, the AFC wildcard team that beat San Francisco 37-14 Saturday, at Oakland.

—Sunday: Cincinnati at Miami, the defending Super Bowl champion and AFC East winner that blanked Detroit 31-0 Saturday, and Los Angeles, NFC West king and 30-17 winner over Cleveland Sunday, at Dallas.

In other final-day action, Atlanta edged New Orleans 14-10; Kansas City trounced San Diego 33-6; Baltimore nipped New England 18-13, and Green Bay downed Chicago 21-0.

Oakland's victory sets up a playoff rematch against Pittsburgh. The Steelers beat the Raiders 9-7 in 1972 postseason play when Franco Harris grabbed a deflected pass and ran for a touchdown in the closing seconds.

Cowboys 30, Cardinals 30

"We're still basically a running team," said Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach who did a lot to change that image by passing for 256 yards and three touchdowns against St. Louis.

Rams 30, Browns 17

Two Rams set team records and John Hadl passed for two touchdowns against Cleveland, Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox had other things on his mind — "Right now, tonight, tomorrow and the rest of the week we'll be thinking about Dallas.

The club record setters were kicker David Ray, with three field goals and three conversions for a season total of 130 points, and Lawrence McCutcheon, who ran for 83 yards for a total of 1,097. The 12 victories, against two losses, was also a Rams' record.

Redskins 38, Eagles 20

"We just weren't getting execution before (Sunday)," said Washington running back Larry Brown after gaining a total of 255 yards against Philadelphia and catching three of Billy Kilmer's four touchdown passes. "We got it today."

Vikings 31, Giants 7

Fran Tarkenton's clutch passing and two interceptions, which set up touchdowns, keyed the victory for Minnesota, as the Vikings tied a club best with a 12-2 record.

Falcons-Saints

Atlanta, which had beaten New Orleans 62-7 in the season opener, got by the Saints this time on Eddie Ray's two oneyard touchdown runs.

Chiefs 33, Chargers 6

Ed Podolak, Jeff Kinney and Wendell Hayes scored touchdowns on short runs and Jan Stenerud kicked four field goals in Kansas City's romp past San Diego.

Colts 18, Patriots 13

Baltimore's Marty Domres and New England's Jim Plunkett each passed for two touchdowns in a driving snow, and Lydell Mitchell rushed for 142 yards on 34 carries for a Baltimore club season record of 963.

Packers 21, Bears 0

Green Bay's Jerry Tagge threw his first two touchdowns passes as a pro and John Brockington rushed for 142 yards against the punchless Bears.

MT wrestlers finish seventh

Miami Trace's wrestling team in its season debut, finished seventh in the rugged eight-team Franklin Heights Invitational wrestling tournament held Saturday.

New head coach Dick Hill was generally pleased with the Panthers' performance Saturday since it was their first outing of the winter campaign and most of the other teams entered had competed in at least three tournaments.

The Panthers got sparkling performances from a trio of grapplers. Alan Fennig, a senior co-captain, placed second in the 126-pound division, Donald Dunton placed second in the 175-pound bracket and Gary Cobb landed third place honors in the 132-pound class.

Hilliard won the match, Columbus West was second and Columbus Bexley was third. Host Franklin Heights notched a fourth place finish followed in order by Utica, Teays Valley, Miami Trace and Bloom Carroll.

No-shows increase in NFL, report shows

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 1 million ticketholders stayed away from National Football League games this season, the first under the lifting of the television blackout, a league spokesman said Sunday night.

This final weekend of the season had an estimated 190,000 no-shows, according to the NFL.

Bengals barely defeat Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals didn't use steamroller tactics in beating the Houston Oilers 27-24 Sunday to win the American Football Conference Central Division championship, but they got the job done anyway.

"We won the game and the divisional title, and you can slice that anyway you want to," an obviously tired Bengal Coach Paul Brown said after Ken Anderson's three touchdown passes salvaged the Cincinnati victory.

"We caught a team that was emotionally aroused because of those two guys we traded but that's just normal," Brown said.

Brown referred to Houston running backs Paul Robinson and Fred Willis, who came to Houston last year in a trade with the Bengals.

Robinson, inactive much of this year, gained 100 yards on 20 carries in one of the Oilers' best offensive showings of their season, which ended with a 1-13 record.

Willis, an Oiler spark all season, gained 85 yards rushing and caught three passes for 51 yards to win the AFC receiving title with 57 catches for the season.

The Bengals' answer was Anderson's touchdown passes, including bombs of 77 and 67 yards to rookie Isaac Curtis and a 10-yard touchdown to tight end Bob Trumpy. Cincinnati also scored on field goals of 18 and 40 yards by Horst Muhlmann.

The determined Oilers, closing out a dismal season on an encouraging note, led the Bengals 10-3 in the second quarter and rallied with two late touchdowns to make it close after Cincinnati had taken a 27-10 lead.

Willis scored two touchdowns, Robinson added another and Skip Butler kicked an 11-yard field goal for the Oilers. Willis and Robinson each scored on one-yard plunges in Houston's fourth-quarter surge.

"I guess we took them for granted," Trumpy said of the Oilers. "Once the Oilers all get pointed in the right direction, they'll be a good football team. We overlooked that fact.

"We can't go down there sitting on our heels," said Bengal running back Essex Johnson, who missed a 1,000-yard rushing season by three yards.

HONOLULU (AP) — Two Ohio State University football players will have positions on the East team in the 28th annual Hula Bowl, Jan. 6.

They will be John Hicks, a lineman on the offensive team, and Randy Gradishar, a linebacker for the defense.

Simpson smashes yardage record

NEW YORK (AP) — "Maybe it's my record," O.J. Simpson said Sunday, but I had a lot of help."

Simpson, who established a single-season ground-gaining record of 2,003 yards by piling up 200 yards as the Buffalo Bills beat the New York Jets 34-14, then introduced the men he said "made it all possible," the Bills' offensive linemen: center Mike Montler, guards Reggie McKenzie and Joe Delamielleure, tackles Dave Foley and Donnie Green and tight end Paul Seymour.

"These guys were just fantastic," said Simpson. "They kept blasting holes open for me, and all I had to do was follow them through. That record was a team effort — no running back can get 2,000 yards without a lot of help."

With their help, the irrepressible Simpson broke Jim Brown's 10-year-old record of 1,863 yards in one season, set in 1963. He did it with a six-yard run during the first period, and when the record was announced nobody was happier than McKenzie, who strutted about the field with both arms upraised in a victory sign.

Simpson then went after the incredible 2,000-yard barrier, finally breaking it on a seven-yard run with 5:56 left to play. Everyone thought he had 2,001, but NFL statisticians after the game uncovered two more yards to make it 2,003.

The Bills streamed onto the frozen, snow-covered field, hoisted O.J. to their shoulders and carried him to the bench in triumph.

"He's a helluva man," said McKenzie. "I mean, who else do you know would take the entire line to a national press conference, the way he did? He's just beautiful.

"I was visiting with him last summer, and he said, 'Wouldn't it be nice to get 1,700 yards?' I just told him, 'Let's get two grand instead, and really set the world on fire.' Now we have, and it's beautiful."

Bills coach Lou Saban attributed at least part of Simpson's success to the rapport he has with his linemen.

"O.J. is surrounded by a young offensive line, and he's young enough to be part of them. While they were learning, O.J. was carrying the burden. Now they work beautifully together."

Commings takes over at Iowa

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — The University of Iowa hopes a player from its winning past can coach the Hawkeye football team out of a 12-year drought.

Bob Commings, until now a high school coach at Massillon, Ohio, was lineman on Iowa's 1956 Big Ten Conference championship team that beat Oregon State in the Rose Bowl. He arrived in Iowa City Sunday to take the reins of a team that finished the 1973 season 0-11.

Commings, 40, was named to the post Saturday, replacing Frank Lauterbur who was fired Nov. 20 after refusing to make changes in his coaching staff.

"The people I've talked with tell me there is material at Iowa," Commings said.

UCLA Bruins remain unbeatable combo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The UCLA story: If one man doesn't beat you, the other one will.

"I was just happy that the players could withstand adversity," said UCLA basketball Coach John Wooden after his Bruins had defeated North Carolina State 84-66 Saturday and captured their 79th straight victory.

The one man is 6-foot-11 Bill Walton, who sat on the bench for 21 minutes after he was called for four fouls early in the first half — "adversity" in Wooden's words.

The other man is 6-7 Keith Wilkes who scored 27 points and held his opposite number, 6-4 All-American David Thompson, to just 17 points, including seven of 20 from the floor.

"I don't like his shot at all," said Wooden of Wilkes' stiffarm, over-the-head jumper. "I just like the way it goes through the hoop."

But Wooden didn't feel Wilkes' performance was a surprise, even though the 20-year-old grandson of a Baptist minister has played in Walton's shadow most of his college basketball career.

Both teams came out visibly tight — UCLA putting its 78-game winning streak on the line and No. 2 N.C. State playing what it must have figured its toughest game of season.

At one point, North Carolina State took a 23-20 lead and at halftime led 33-32.

Walton finally came off the bench in the second half with the score tied 54-54. And behind the shooting and rebounding of Walton and Wilkes, the Bruins took a 73-56 lead in five minutes.

In other games involving the Top Ten Saturday, No. 3 Indiana beat Ball State 86-62, No. 7 Marquette defeated Minnesota 68-50, No. 8 Providence edged Austin Peay 94-92, No. 9 Louisville dropped Florida State 90-78, and No. 10 Memphis State breezed past East Texas State 99-76.

No. 12 Long Beach State beat Long Island University 60-46, Seaton Hall dropped No. 17 San Francisco 89-83, 15th-ranked Kansas State beat Brigham Young 95-85, No. 19 Jacksonville defeated Oral Roberts 91-86, and No. 20 Southern California got by Arizona State 79-70.

Wilkes' shot from underneath opened a 42-35 wedge early in the in the final half, and two more baskets by the forward made it 50-44 with less than 13 minutes left.

"You don't have a great basketball team like UCLA's if you are a one-man team," said North Carolina State Coach Norm Sloan. "They did not wilt under pressure. They have been there before and they know what it is like.

MT reserves win 53-42

The Miami Trace reserves, behind the shooting of Greg Cobb and the rebounding of Randy Rhonemous, outscored the Hillsboro reserved 33-22 in the second half to win it's fourth game of the year 53-42 Saturday night.

With the score standing 20-20 starting the third quarter Miami Trace used a full court press to intimidate the visiting Indians. Twelve times Hillsboro turned the ball over to Miami Trace in trying to get the ball down the court.

Even though the Panthers only led by one point going into the fourth quarter the tempo of the game had started to change.

Cobb, who was held to eight points in the first half, started getting the offensive rebound and scoring from close range. When Cobb wasn't scoring in close he was hitting from the foul line due to fails on Hillsboro's part. The super sophomore ended his nights work with 22 game high points and a pocketfull of rebounds.

But the big difference in the game came in the fourth quarter when the lanky Rhonemous forced Hillsboro to take bad shots from outside and to miss easy shots by his towering heighth. When the shots were missed by the Indians, Rhonemous was there to retrieve the ball and start a Miami Trace fast break. In all, Miami Trace out rebounded Hillsboro 38-28.

Along with Cobb's 22 points the Panthers received good showing from Rod Garringer with seven, Alan Connors with six and Rhonemous also chipped in six. The Indians were led by Barry Zink with 14 points.

Caracas subway seen as transit woes aid

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — They call it the "highway of the poor" (autopista de los pobres) and although still in the planning and argument stage, it is seen as a solution to urgent public transit needs in this traffic-choked Venezuelan capital.

The highway — so dubbed by President Rafael Caldera — is a proposed subway system which would link the ends of the long and narrow city, providing fast and cheap transportation for its two million inhabitants.

It would ease the plight of those who now must spend hours daily traveling to and from work aboard buses and taxis which compete with an estimated 300,000 private automobiles on the city's jammed streets and modern but overtaxed freeway system.

Largely to blame for the city's traffic and transit problems are its topography and a growth rate which has doubled the population in little more than a decade.

SET IN A narrow valley hemmed in by mountains on the north and south, Caracas is only two to three miles wide in places, but stretches more than 17 miles from end to end. Luxury homes, apartment buildings and shanty towns climb the hillsides.

The bulk of traffic moves along a skyscraper and freeway-lined central corridor which contains 44 per cent of the city's employment and 31 per cent of its inhabitants.

Caracas already contains 20 per cent of Venezuela's total population of 10 million and provides 22 per cent of the country's employment.

The subway project, long under study, currently rests in Congress, which must approve financing. Project backers, including Caldera's Social Christian government, express hope that funds will be approved next year despite politically-inspired opposition and the arguments of those lawmakers who feel that priority should be given to construction of low-cost housing.

PLANNERS say the principal line would cost the quivalent of $293 million while the entire five-line system would run a staggering $698 million. They point out that costs rise by nearly $12 million for each year that construction is delayed.

The Venezuelan government began studying a mass transit system in 1947 and a Ministerial Transportation Office (OMT) was created in 1963 to make a more thorough investigation and select the best system.

A monorail was studied and rejected as impractical for a city developing as rapidly as Caracas. Obtaining rights of way would have been costly and complicated in the space-short city, planners say.

OMT experts finally agreed that the best solution would be an air-conditioned subway capable of carrying 40,000 passengers an hour along the central corridor.

Tucson displays Ditmars lizard

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Scientists had to stir around in the stomach of a lizard preserved 75 years to come up with the latest attraction at the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum here.

The Ditmars Horned Lizard was discovered in the desert of Sonora, Mexico, in 1897 by Raymond Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the New York Zoological Park. It was declared a new species in 1910, but no new specimen was found for three quarters of a century.

The M.D. Robinson of the University of Arizona combined records of an 1890 lizard-collecting expedition with clues taken from the stomach of one of the preserved reptiles.

Identification of ingested grasses, pebbles and insect remains helped scientists pinpoint the creature's habitat and rediscover the Ditmars population.

"This is the first time this species has ever been displayed publicly," said Mervin W. Larson, museum director.

Drills studded with hundreds of coarse diamonds are preferred for boring oil wells, because the bits do not have to be drawn up thousands of feet for frequent replacement.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

It is not easy to make six clubs, even if you see all four hands. But the fact is that the slam can be made against any defense, and anyone willing to attempt the feat is welcome to the job.

The deal was composed back in the 50's by a player named Chien-Hwa Wang, of Peking. He was attempting to illustrate what he described as a clash squeeze, but by any name at all his solution is indeed a thing of beauty.

West leads the king of hearts, East contributing the queen, and next plays a low heart to East's nine, which declarer ruffs.

South cashes the A-K of trumps and then the ace of diamonds, West producing the ten. Now, abandoning his plan to ruff a diamond in dummy, which would prove fatal in the actual hand, South plays two more rounds of trumps to produce this position:

South plays his lat trump and West, who cannot spare a spade or a diamond, discards the ace of hearts as dummy contributes a spade and East a diamond.

East then falls victim to a squeeze when declarer cashes the K-Q-A of spades in that order. Whatever East discards on the last spade, South is sure to win the rest of the tricks.

Speaking of Your Health...

Gout Comes in Various Forms

I have been put on an anti-gout diet because my blood showed high uric acid.

Is it possible to have gout without any symptoms?

Mr. F.G., Tex.

Dear Mr. G.:

As more and more information accumulates about gout it becomes apparent that this is a disease of metabolism which is far more complex than previously suspected.

At one time, the public always conceived the person with gout as an overweight, over-indulged tycoon sitting with his foot elevated and his big toe swathed in bandages.

This portrait is false. As a matter of act, a gouty disorder has many facets and occurs in people of all social and economic levels.

Gout is a disturbance of the manufacture, accumulation and the secretion of uric acid in the body. A gouty tendency may exist in a great many people without any gross evidence of disease. It may be completely symptomless until an acute episode occurs.

During a routine blood study the uric acid level may be high. When this is found, even in the absence of any symptoms, treatment can be started to abort the onset of painful joints in the body.

Many cases of early gout can be controlled by diet alone. Certain foods, including kidney, liver, sweetbreads, anchovies, sardines, and gravy extracts should be avoided. These foods are high in purine from which uric acid is produced.

I get unbearable pain when I come down in an airplane. Can the cause for this be traced?

Mr. H.N., Calif.

Dear Mr.:

The Eustachian tube, which runs from the back of the nose to the middle ear, normally is a clear passageway for the free flow of air. Air that enters into the outer ear balances the pressure on both sides of the eardrum.

When air pressure changes are increased, as during a flight, this balance is changed and pain may result.

People who have had previous infections of the eardrums are more susceptible because scar tissue may interfere with the elasticity or the ear drum.

Infections of the nose, sinusitis, pharyngitis, allergies, and, in children, large adenoids, may obstruct the opening to the Eustachian tube and cause pain during a flight.

Careful examination can usually pinpoint the reason for the problem you describe.

Plans were made for a gift exchange at the next meeting, Dec. 19 at 3:45 p.m. after school.

Refreshments were served by Kim Adams and next meetings hostess will be Kari Wolfe.

Members present were Kim Adams, Holly Evans, Tonda Lute, Denise Tate, Julie Wilson, Kari Wolfe, and Pam Yarger.

Mrs. Bert Yarger is the leader and Mrs. Harold Evans the assistant.

SCOUT TROOP 67

Patrol Leader Jeff Robinette discussed the last campout and hike near Cincinnati at the last meeting of Scout Troop 67 at Jeffersonville. The 10-mile cross-country hike and campout were held at the Southern Ohio Dog and Game Preserve.

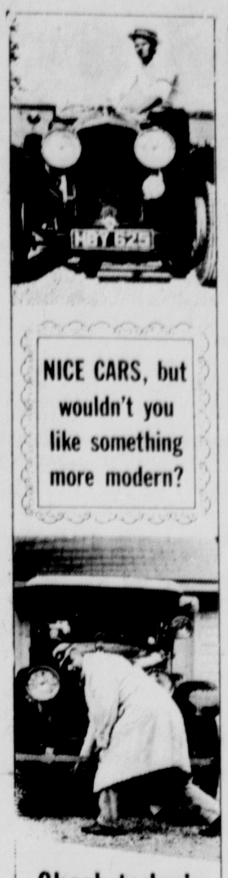

The next campout will be in conjunction with a 16-mile hike Jan. 11-13 on the Logan Trail.

The next meeting will not be held until Jan. 2 because of the many activities of Christmastime. The Scouts were encouraged to work for their advancements during the holidays in preparation for the semi-annual Court of Honor Jan. 27.

Much of the last meeting centered on a karate training demonstration by Glenn Jacobson, an MTHS teacher who holds the black belt. He was assisted by three karate students as he explained the various steps of self-defense. The group then proceeded to break boards and concrete blocks with their hands and feet. Jacobson also broke several concrete blocks with his head.

Weekend brings rash of traffic accidents

A service station attendant at the Clark station on Court Street received minor injuries Saturday afternoon when he was struck by the outside mirror of a pick-up truck.

Stephen R. Trolle, 25, of 905 Lakeview Ave., sustained a cut lip and wrist abrasions and was treated and released from Fayette Memorial Hospital. David T. Ogan Jr., 22, Greenfield, was pulling his truck from the gas pumps when he struck the young attendant.

Congress opens week with aim of adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is entering a clean-up, get-away week, hoping to clear a heavy work calendar and recess until Jan. 21.

One of the first items on the Senate's agenda is to confirm one of its own members, Ohio Republican William B. Saxbe, as attorney general.

President Nixon nominated Saxbe for the Cabinet post after Elliot L. Richardson resigned rather than carry out an order to fire Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor.

The Senate also was starting off the week with action on a $5.8 billion foreign aid appropriation bill passed by the House.

The measured includes $2.2 billion requested by Nixon to help Israel replace weapons lost in its October war with Egypt and Syria.

The legislative gamut for Congress in its adjournment drive also ranges from defense funds to emergency fuel conservation and home rule for the District of Columbia.

And still in dispute between the two branches of Congress are different versions of legislation providing a two-stage, 11 per cent boost in Social Security benefits.

Another trouble spot is an energy bill that would confer sweeping authority on the President to ration gasoline and take other steps to conserve scarce fuels.

The House added to differences with the Senate over the emergency measure by writing in an amendment to ban allocation of fuel for busing children past neighborhood schools.

The Senate previously had rejected an anti-busing amendment, and Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said that ironing out of this controversy may delay adjournment.

Senate-House conferees also will have to reach accord on a defense appropriation bill, the biggest of all money measures. It totaled $73.3 billion as it passed the Senate, $836 million less than the House voted.

The emergency fuel allocation bill is just one of several measures growing out of the energy crisis awaiting final action before adjournment. Another would set up a centralized agency to deal with the problem, while another would lower highway speed limits.

The Senate will vote Tuesday for a third time on cutting off debate on a measure to restore a U.S. embargo on Rhodesian chrome imports in accord with United Nations sanctions voted in 1968.

Two attempts to halt the debate and force the bill to a vote fell four and two votes short of the required two-thirds majority.

And a third attempt may be made to break a filibuster against a bill to put the legal services for the poor program under an independent government corporation. Supporters of the bill missed by only one vote Friday in getting the necessary two-thirds margin.

21 feared dead as Arab terrorists hijack plane

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas bombed an American plane in Rome's airport today, killing at least 21 persons, police said. The terrorists escaped to Athens in a hijacked German jet with an undetermined number of hostages.

They began their attack at Rome with a submachine gun fusillade that police said killed an unknown number of bystanders. Authorities said the total killed may reach 30.

Greek police said the hijacked aircraft landed at the main Athens airport and the guerrillas negotiated with Greek authorities for release of two Palestinians held by the military-backed Greek government.

The hijackers threatened to blow up the Lufthansa Boeing 737 with all the hostages if the two were not released, an airline spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the Arab guerrillas informed the control tower that one of those aboard was "seriously injured and may die."

Police said all 11 passengers in the first-class section of a loading Pan American World Airways jetliner were killed when two of the terrorists ran up two boarding ramps and threw incendiary bombs inside.

The two returned and joined their companions aboard a Lufthansa Boeing 737 with a German crew of five.

The plane appeared headed for Beirut before it landed in Athens and sources at the Beirut International Airport had said the hijackers were requesting "urgent preparations for an emergency landing."

The informants in Beirut said the pilot of the commandeered plane had radioed that the craft had a damaged door that prevented him from flying at a high altitude.

The bomb hurled in Rome ripped two holes in the Pan American Boeing 707 and set it afire. One gaping hole was visible in the roof of the forward cabin and another in the rear.

Police sources said all 11 passengers in first class were dead. They said two of the terrorists may have been wounded by police fire.

Police at the San Camillo Hospital said 10 persons, including two Americans, were brought in for treatment from the airport. Dozens of ambulances and fire trucks went to and from the airport

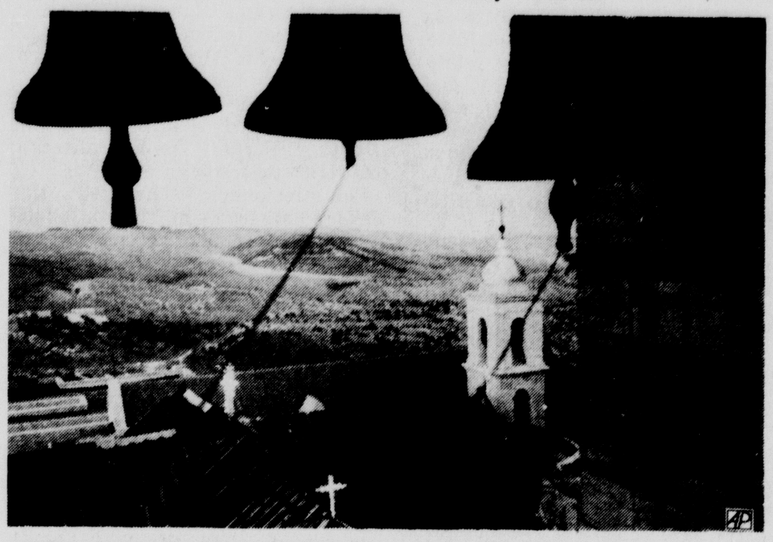

Police said there were four hijackers who described themselves as Palestinians over the commandeered jetliner's radio. Lufthansa officials in Frankfurt said the crew included a pilot, copilot, two stewardesses and a woman ramp agent.

In Bonn, the West German Foreign Ministry set up a "crisis staff" to watch developments.

An official said the terror began after the Arabs had walked through a transit lounge to the baggage control and were asked to open their luggage for a routine security check.

They did, and pulled out submachine

Heavy snow, gusty winds hammer East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A taste of winter choked much of the East today with heavy snow, freezing rains, sleet and gusting winds.

Although winter doesn't start officially start until 7:08 p.m. EST Friday, six inches of snow covered Washington, D.C., Sunday night and from two to five inches fell from the Virginias to eastern New York.

Freezing rain and sleet extended from eastern Virginia to the southern New England coast today, and rain dampened the Carolinas.

Heavy snow warnings were posted from Virginia and West Virginia to eastern Pennsylvania, where as much as 12 inches of snow was expected before the current storm subsides.

Winter storms warnings were issued for New Jersey, New England and eastern New York and a heavy snow watch for western New York.

A whiff of warm air moving through the northwestern plains produced snow in parts of the north central continent. Temperatures were in the 40s in many places in Montana, Wyoming and Idaho.

Snow showers lingered along the western shore of Lake Michigan, and below zero temperatures were reported at spots in Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan.

Rain showers were scattered over the northern Pacific coast and the northern Rockies.

Generally fair weather prevailed in the central and southern Rockies and from the western Great Lakes to Texas.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 15 at Pellston, Mich., to 65 at Key West, Fla.

Metzenbaum likely Senate pick

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate vote expected today on the nomination of U.S. Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, to be attorney general has intensified speculation in his home state over who will succeed him.

Two Ohio newspapers said Saturday they had learned Cleveland businessman Howard M. Metzenbaum will be appointed to fill the seat.

Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan reportedly had been leaning toward a "caretaker" appointment, to avoid the looming Democratic primary battle between Metzenbaum and former astronaut John Glenn. Both are announced candidates for the position in the 1974 election.

The governor's office had no comment Friday on reports in the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Dayton Journal-Herald.

Speculation was increased because Saxbe's colleagues in the Senate are believed certain to confirm him overwhelmingly.

The Senate Judiciary Committee gave Saxbe its stamp of approval Thursday by a vote of 15-1.

Two weeks earlier, the Senate voted 75-16 in favor of a bill reducing the salary for the justice post in an effort to remove a possible constitutional bar to Saxbe's appointment.

In a copyrighted story, The Plain Dealer said Gilligan decided on Metzenbaum during a meeting Thursday with his advisers and informed the millionaire publisher and industrialist at the governor's mansion.

A source close to the governor was quoted as saying Gilligan considered a caretaker appointment a "copout."

The Dayton Journal-Herald said Metzenbaum's appointment was "almost certain." Its copyrighted story was attributed to unidentified aides who attended the Thursday meeting.

Saxbe is expected to resign officially early next month if he is confirmed. His term runs to Jan. 3, 1975.

Both Glenn and Metzenbaum have announced they want the Democratic nomination next spring. Gilligan has been reported under pressure from county party leaders and big labor who support Metzenbaum.

Running as an incumbent in the party primary and next fall's general election is expected to boost the chances of Gilligan's choice.

The only dissenting vote among Senators on the Judiciary Committee came from Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., who believes Saxbe is constitutionally ineligible.

The Senate's earlier vote came on an administration sponsored measure to cut the attorney general's salary from $60,000 to $35,000.

The Constitution bars members of Congress from being named to federal posts for which they pay has been raised during the member's term of office.

Saxbe was a Senator in 1969 when Congress raised the pay of cabinet members from $35,000 to $60,000.

Many Senators who voted against passage have stated they approve of President Nixon's choice, but do not believe the pay reduction legislation makes the appointment constitutional.

Nixon withheld formal nomination until the congressional ruling on Saxbe's eligibility.

The Judiciary Committee's approval of the nomination came after only two days of hearings.

Energy pinch for real, Simon says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's energy chief says his biggest job is persuading the public that the energy crisis is real.

William E. Simon, head of the Federal Energy Office, said Sunday the crisis will continue even if Arab nations resume oil shipments to the United States.

"We have been on a collision course in energy requirements and demands for many years," he said. "In 1970 production peaked ... but energy needs will double between 1973 and 1990."

In an interview on the CBS television and radio program "Face the Nation," Simon said the federal government must persuade the public the crisis is not the creation of politicians and oil men.

He praised citizen cooperation in the shortage, but he said the public still needs to end its wasteful ways.

In other energy-related developments:

—President Nixon signed into law Saturday a bill that would establish year-around daylight saving time beginning Jan. 6. Nixon estimated the extra hour of daylight in the evening would save 150,000 barrels of oil this winter.

—Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said the government could encourage competition and expand capacity by building seven petroleum refineries and selling them to the public.

—Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said that $1.2 million in contributions to President Nixon's reelection campaign were made by half the members of the National Petroleum council. The council advises the federal government on oil policy.

High Court nixes class action suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today blocked the use of class action suits to collect for damages to the environment.

In a 6 to 3 decision, the court said each party complaining of damages must satisfy federal court rules requiring proof of at least $10,000 in damages in order to file a suit in federal court.

The ruling came in a suit brought by two Vermont couples against the International Paper Co., alleging damages to lakefront property from discharges at a company pulp and paper manufacturing plant.

They had sought to sue on behalf of some 200 other lakefront landowners in addition to themselves.

Writing for the majority, Justice Byron R. White said the suit could not be considered a class action because the other landowners had not satisfied the $10,000 damage requirement.

8 Persons die in plane crash

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An official of a firm requested to carry out repairs on a cargo plane which plowed into a residential area says he notified the aircraft's owners the day before the accident that the work had not been done. Eight persons died in the crash.

Richard J. Sekman, owner of Sekman Aviation repair facilities, said H.B. Robinson, business agent for the firm owning the plane, had arranged for the craft to be kept at Sekman's repair facility at Miami International Airport.

Sekman said a pilot who flew the cargo plane a month ago had ordered extensive maintenance and repairs.

But Sekman said he made it clear to Robinson that because of manpower problems he had been unable to do the work before the plane left the Sekman repair hangar Friday.

Douglas Drifus, an investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board, said efforts to contact Robinson had been unsuccessful and that the FBI was seeking to find him so that he could be interviewed.

The plane, bound for Venezuela with 21,000 pounds of Christmas trees, crashed seconds after take off Saturday night. Among those killed were the three crew members amd five residents of the residential section one mile east of the airport.

Sekman said it was possible that independent mechanics were hired to work on the aircraft during weekends while it was at the hangar. He said, however, that he and his employes never saw mechanics working on the plane.

Roy Jones, a weekend guard at the hangar, said some work was done on the plane by unidentified mechanics.

Jorge Areces of Sweetwater said Sunday he was secretary-treasurer of Aircraft Pool Leasing Inc., which was formed six months ago to purchase the 15-year-old Lockheed-Constellation plane from a Panamanian firm.

Areces said he knew some repairs were needed on the plane and assumed they were completed before Saturday's fatal flight.

William Neckman, the company's president, said: "I just feel horrible about it (the crash). All the necessary information will be supplied later."

Eva Thomas, 59, said she was getting ready for bed when the plane slammed into the ground across the street.

"I had just reached for my nightgown when it sounded as if the whole world exploded," she said. "I looked out and saw a solid sheet of fire."

A 30-man federal investigation team planned to comb the block-long wreckage site today, searching for clues to the crash.

Some trucks roll again after shutdown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Truckers were still "parkedin" at least three Ohio truck stops early this morning as rigs began to dot the state's major highways.

A driver at a Franklin, Ohio rest area said several hundred haulers would remain shutdown indefinitely in the southwestern Ohio lot until speed limits were raised and the price of diesel fuel reduced.

Meanwhile, most drivers who were idle for the past four days supporting the shutdown were reported to have left truck stops by the scheduled end of the protests at midnight Sunday.

But a survey of Ohio Highway Patrol posts around the state showed truck traffic was "normal to light" for a Sunday night and not much of an increase over the past four days.

Truckers at the Junction Truck Stop in Strasburg, Ohio in Tuscarawas County just off Interstate 77 continued to flag down moving trucks, the patrol said.

A dispatcher at the New Philadelphia post said, "It looks like it's starting all over again." There was no violence reported.

At Coal Grove along Ohio's major southern border route, a patrol official said drivers were "still pulling them over." A guard at the Plaza 52 truck stop in Lawrence County said rigs were still "parked" there.

Trucker Carl Bray at the Franklin truck stop said drivers would stay indefinitely until their protest cries are answered.

Bray said a meeting was set for Tuesday night for truckers, and invited public officials, the governor and trucking firm officials.

As late as Sunday night, Bray said, "We've got this thing under control. There isn't a thing running between here and Washington, D.C."

Around Ohio, highway officials reported late Sunday normal to light truck traffic in the Toledo area; Mansfield along I-71 was normal; in southwestern Ohio, I-75 and I-71 were reported very light; the Ohio Turnpike, normal, and I-70 near Cambridge "starting to pick up."

Most protest leaders at Ohio's focal point of the shutdown, the Shenandoah truck stop near Cambridge, drove away from the area by late Sunday.

"It's just about lost all its steam," said Mike Saunders, one of the leaders who spent the past 10 days at the stop. "We thought all the company drivers would stick with the independents on this, but they didn't.

"It was a shame. We could've done so much," he said.

Saunders promised a longer shutdown in mid-January if the federal government doesn't relax current energy-related restrictions.

One major truck stop in West Virginia remained shut down today as maverick truckers continued a boycott of the open road in protest to rising fuel oil prices and reduced speed limits.

The three-day nationwide protest ended Saturday at most other locations and the majority of the truck stops on Interstate highways through the Mountain State reported they were doing business as usual today.

But the Charleston West truck stop along I-64 at Winfield was shut down again Sunday afternoon when tractor-trailer rigs blocked fuel pumps.

Employes at the truck stop said there were an estimated 200 trucks parked around the diesel pumps this morning. The drivers were standing around quietly, talking and drinking coffee.

The drivers reportedly told employees of the truck stop they would stay there until Tuesday.

No reason was given why the boycott was renewed Sunday.

At the Windmill Truck Stop on I-70 at Wheeling, a Bridgeport, Ohio, trucker said fellow drivers had decided to go back to work Monday and give officials in Washington a month to take some positive action on the truckers' requests.

Ed Venesky, an eight-year veteran of trucking, said more than 100 truckers he had talked to along I-70 were willing to wait until Jan. 15 for some action. He said if nothing happened by then "we'll be back out and we'll go for broke."

Accord reported on Geneva talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended his seven-nation Middle East peace mission today and announced "complete agreement" on opening the Geneva peace conference.

He completed more than 10 hours of meetings with Israeli leaders today and then flew to Lisbon for talks with Portuguese Premier Marcello Caetano.

Before departing Lod International Airpot, Kissinger told newsmen that both the Israelis and Arabs have agreed that the opening phase of the Geneva talks should deal with the separation of Israeli and Egyptian forces on the Suez Front.

"We have been informed that if the other parties will attend (the conference), that Israel will send a delegation," Kissinger said.

The American secretary earlier said that he was optimistic the Geneva talks, originally scheduled for Tuesday, could get under way by Friday.

He described his 6½ hours of discussions with Premier Golda Meir Sunday night as "very friendly, very warm, very constructive" and told newsmen, "We reached complete agreement about the procedures and terms of reference of the opening of the conference."

Kissinger arrived in Israel Sunday afternoon. After completing discussions with Israeli officials today he prayed at a memorial to six million Jews killed during World War II.

The predominant topic of Kissinger's talks in Israel reportedly was the role to be played by the United Nations at the peace conference. The Arab states, enjoying the support of the majority in the world body, want the talks held under U.N. auspices. Israel prefers United States and Soviet supervision.

Israel also is concerned about the fate of an estimated 120 Israelis captured by Syria during the October war. Mrs. Meir said before Kissinger's arrival that Israel would not deal with Syria at the Geneva conference unless Syria handed over a list of the prisoners of war and allowed Red Cross representatives to visit them. She added that this would not prevent Israel's dealing with Egypt and Jordan at the parley.

Informed sources in Damascus said Kissinger was unable to obtain the POW list from President Hafez Assad during his visit to the Syrian capital Saturday. But Israel's refusal to deal with Syria should have no effect on the first stages of the Geneva conference since the first order of business is to be negotiations for the withdrawal of Israeli and Egyptian troops along the Suez Canal.

Kent State jury selection slated

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The federal government will begin its grand jury inquiry here Tuesday into the 1970 Kent State shooting in which four students were killed and nine others wounded.

Federal Judge Thomas Lambros is scheduled to begin the selection of the 23-member jury Tuesday morning.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Fred C. Coleman of Cleveland said he hopes jury selection is finished in the morning so justice department lawyers can begin presenting evidence in the afternoon.

Robert A. Murphy, a 36-year-old government lawyer who summarized the FBI's 8,000-word report on the shootings, heads the government's four-member team. Murphy is chief of the Criminal Section of the U. S. Justice Department's Civil Rights Division.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger announced last week that the Justice Department had decided to call a grand jury to investigate whether the civil rights of those involved had been violated.

"Based upon information developed in our recent additional investigation, I am persuaded it is necessary to call witnesses before a grand jury before we can conclude the department's investigation into the circumstances surrounding the fatal shootings...," Pottinger said last week.

"This action does not mean that we have made a decision to seek indictments," Pottinger added. "This action is taken with the concurrence of Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork."

Last week Murphy said he would ask the grand jury to subpoena 10 to 15 initial witnesses, mostly National Guardmen.

The shootings occurred on the Kent State campus May 4, 1970, when Ohio National Guardmen opened fire during an antiwar demonstration.

Shortly after the incident former Gov. James A. Rhodes convened a state grand jury. The state investigation exonerated the guardmen, but returned indictments against 25 others. One of those indicted persons was found guilty of a misdemeanor and two others pleaded guilty to riot charges. The other 22 indictments were dismissed for lack of evidence.

Former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell denied repeated attempts for have the federal grand jury investigation of the incident and in August, 1971, he closed the Justice Department's books on the case.

Atty. Gen. Elliott L. Richardson reopened the case earlier this year, saying he saw "some areas where an additional investigation is desirable."

guns and hand grenades. They then grabbed a security officer and five policemen, sprayed several plate glass windows with their guns and walked toward the Lufthansa plane.

But before boarding, two terrorists ran up to the parked Pan American jetliner and threw at least one bomb at it.

A Pan American spokesman said the jet had stopped over on its flight from New York to Beirut and Teheran, Iran.

The shooting panicked travelers and airport employes. Police evacuated all airport buildings after the attack at about 1 p.m.—7 a.m. EST.

The terrorists struck as three Arabs were being tried in Rome courts on charges of plotting to strike down an Israeli airliner with rocket launchers. They were arrested during a raid on an apartment near the airport last Sept. 5.

That attack was to have coincided with the anniversary of the Palestinian massacre of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympic games Sept. 5. Five Arabs were arrested, and two were released pending a later trial.

There were reports that one of the three on trial was an important member of the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

Driver smothers fire with flour

A Washington C.H. man whose car motor caught fire when the carburetor back-fired in front of his residence could have done more harm than good when he put out the flame before firemen arrived.

John W. Mason of 1530 N. North St. used baking flour to subdue the flames and Lt. Richard G. Reed of the Washington C.H. Fire Department warned this is an explosive substance which should not be used to put out fires.

Reed said that baking soda can be used on a gas fire if a proper extinguisher is unavailable but never flour.

The incident occurred at 11:50 a.m. Saturday.

Damage was set at $25.

Courthouse hour change considered

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning agreed to discuss new hours of operation for the Courthouse with all section and department heads who have offices in the Courthouse.

Chairman Robert Mace said the board is considering opening the Courthouse from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. with a noon hour from 12:30 p.m. until 1:30 p.m.

Mace said the change in hours of operation is being considered since the federal government's latest requirement that all clocks be turned ahead one hour. Mace said the new time would make it difficult to bring office temperatures in the Courthouse to an acceptable level.

Presently, the Courthouse opens at 9 a.m. and closes at 4 p.m.

The clocks are scheduled to be changed Jan. 6.

THE BOARD also reviewed a petition seeking improvement and repair of the Indian Creek drainage ditch in Wayne Township near Good Hope.

The petition was submitted by William Shepard, Willard Parrett and Dr. Joseph Herbert. The ditch affects a total of 36 landowners.

Commissioners scheduled the viewing date for 1 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 17. The first public hearing on the proposed improvements will be held at 2 p.m. Feb. 4 in the commissioners' officer.

The board appointed two persons to the Fayette County Mental Retardation Board. Mrs. James Beatty was reappointed and Mrs. William Fletcher was the other choice. Both will serve four-year terms from Oct. 31 until Oct. 31, 1977. Mrs. Fletcher will replace Mrs. Jane Mossbarger, who has moved from Fayette County.

In other matters, Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 21 reports for the week.

Stock list posts gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were higher in early trading after the opening was delayed an hour because of a winter storm in the New York area.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead nearly a point, and advancing issues moderately led decliners on the New York Stock Exchange.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Dorsey Corp., unchanged at 4, followed by Western Union, unchanged at 10⅝, and General Motors, up ¾ at 48¼. AT&T rose ¼ to 48¼N and Schering-Plough Corp. fell ¼ to 66¼.

The stock market rallied Friday in heavy trading after a member of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's delegation said that there was a 50-50 change that the oil embargo would end by January.

The Dow industrial average gained 15.22 points to close the week at 815.62 as nearly twice as many issues advanced as declined in trading that topped 20 million shares on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Friday rally came after three days of heavy declines in the market, in which the Dow average had fallen more than 50 points.

Cambodian Reds overrun position

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Khmer Rouge insurgents today drove government forces from a position 10 miles from here in the second day of attacks along the capital's southeastern defenses, the Cambodian command said.

A military source said many Cambodian soldiers were missing after government forces abandoned Kien Svay and fled 200 yards north to the Mekong River. Survivors were rescued from there by navy gunboats.

The command reported five other insurgent attacks within 20 miles of Phnom Penh along Highway 1, the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway that runs parallel to the Mekong. The government said the insurgents were probing for weaknesses in the capital's defenses.

Military sources said 30 government troops have been killed and 62 wounded, and a number of others have been reported missing in skirmishes along the road in the past week.

Observers say the fighting indicates insurgents are preparing for a dry-season offensive. They say the Khmer Rouge would like to drive all government forces from the highway so they could ambush shipping along the river without interference.

Other fighting was reported 13 miles north of Phnom Penh on Highway 5, the road to the rice fields in northwest Cambodia; along Highway 4 to the sea, and at Kampot, on the coast 85 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

In Saigon, the United States asked the International Commission of Control and Supervision to investigate a Communist attack Saturday on an unarmed helicopter in which an American officer and a South Vietnamese crew member were killed.

It was the first American protest to the four-nation commission since it was established by the January cease-fire.

The U.S. note charged that Capt. Richard Morgan Rees, 32, of Kent, Ohio, was "gunned down in cold blood" by Communist soldiers as he stood with his arms raised to show he was unarmed. Rees and three other Americans stationed in Thailand were investigating the crash of a U.S. helicopter seven years ago to determine if the remains of any Americans were at the site of the crash.

Farm profits to be 2nd best ever

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the government's top agricultural analysts said today that 1974 net farm income might vary as much as $3 billion simply because of the weather but that profits still will be second largest on record.

C. Kyle Randall, chairman of the Outlook and Situation board in the Agriculture Department, said a recent estimate of 1974 net farm income was representative of "more than just excessive bureaucratic caution."

The department earlier this month predicted farmers next year would net between $20 billion and $23 billion, second only to an estimated record income in 1973 of more than $25 billion.

Randall's comments were in a speech prepared for the USDA's annual National Agricultural Outlook Conference which runs through Wednesday.

"If growing and harvesting conditions are adverse, 1974 crop output would be reduced and farm prices would likely exceed 1973 levels," Randall said.

"In the face of strong demand, net farm income would fall only about $2 billion. Conversely, good growing conditions and larger crops would place pressure on prices and farm income could drop about $5 billion in 1974," he said.

Randall said he also made the projections on an assumption that farmers will have enough fuel, fertilizer and other input materials to increase production next year.

Given enough of those ingredients, farmers could produce record crops of wheat and livestock feed grains next year, Randall said.

Pension funds must be paid in Findlay case

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Sargent Industries Inc. of Los Angeles, Calif., has been ordered by a federal judge in Toledo to pay back funds into a pension program for employes of a subsidiary which moved out of the state.

U.S. District Court Judge Nicholas Walinski ruled Thursday that the firm pay more than $1 million in back pension allocations from the time Gar-Wood Industries, Inc. of Findlay moved to Wayne, Mich. in October 1971.

The pension program covered 237 workers, many members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers Lodge 1194.

The original complaint was filed in August 1971 in a county common pleas court. Later, after a jurisdictional battle, it was moved to a federal court.

Opinion And Comment

New model Vice President

One of the most interesting aspects of Gerald R. Ford's elevation to the vice presidency is how different he is from his immediate predecessor. There are similarities, too, mostly in their views on public questions. But it is the differences that are most striking, and in our judgment most promising for the future well-being of the country.

Spiro T. Agnew was very much an unknown quantity to the general public when he became the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1968. He had been a county official, then governor of Maryland. The nation at large knew virtually nothing about him.

By contrast, a great deal is known about Vice President Ford. During a quarter of a century in the House of Representatives, for the past several years as minority leader, he has become a familiar figure. Not a figure of any signal distinction, not one known for generative action and battles for great causes, but one much in the public consciousness.

Agnew was celebrated, in some circles notorious, for his indulgence in bitter alliterative rhetoric. His speeches featured serene delivery of harsh judgments - outraged moral judgments, a good deal of the time - on aspects of American life he found distasteful. He is a man with a taste for fancy talk.,

Ford's taste and performance run to directness rather than eloquence. Even those who disagree most deeply with his views cannot fault him for displays of verbal pyrotechnics. This well known technique for obfuscating issues or replacing reason with emotion is not to be found in his arsenal.

Above all it is noteworthy that Ford differs from Agnew in the area of probity and straight dealing. Agnew was brought down by disclosure of low-grade wrongdoing in money matters involving violation of the public trust. His successor has emerged all but unscathed from the most searching investigation any candidate for vice president has ever undergone.

Many take issue with Ford's outlook on this or that important question of public policy. Few dispute the judgment that he is a man of straightforward integrity, an American politician in the best sense of the word. Few doubt that he means with all his heart to uphold the Constitution and do his best for America, as he promised in his remarks upon being sworn in. Whether or not he measures up as first-rate presidential timber, the nation could do much worse than have Gerald R. Ford as its vice president.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

NATO and the Soviet navy

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is an artful man, thoroughly schooled in the history of Nineteenth Century diplomacy. But in trying to deal with the European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, or NATO, he is up against something that would have stumped the combined brains of Talleyrand, Metternich, Otto von Bismarck and any other Nineteenth Century luminary that might be mentioned.

NATO was originally set up as a means of securing Western Europe against a frontal attack from the Communist East. A child of the Nineteen Forties, when the Cold War was raging and the status of West Berlin was the big issue (Berlin was the "bone" in Soviet Russia's throat), NATO was neverr designed to cope with the emergence of the Soviet Union as a great sea power capable of dominating Western Europe from both the northern and southern flanks.

IF NATO didn't exactly telegraph its punch, it at least telegraphed its defensive stance. No Soviet General Staff in its right mind would bother to tangle with a NATO ground force armed with tactical nuclear weapons once the prospect of controlling the sea approaches to Italy, France and West Germany had become a practical reality.

The new standard of living in Western Europe depends on oil, and oil from Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Libya moves by water. So the emergence of the modern Soviet Navy, as detailed in the latest edition of "Jane's Fighting Ships, becomes the relevant document in any discussion of nato's shortcomings.

What possible leverage does Kissinger have to bring the nations of the Common Market to cope with the problem of NATO's flanks?

The presence of American ground forces in West Germany is hardly relevant; a Western Europe deprived of Middle Eastern oil wouldn't be able to fight a ground war for more than a few weeks anyway. What NATO should be talking about now is the problem of sea power in the Eastern Mediterranean, the Indian Ocean, and the Persian Gulf.

It should be worrying about the status of the Suez Canal and the possibility of neutralizing the narrow waters that separate Europe from Asia Minor at the Dardanelles. It should be concerned with the storage of bunker oil in Cape Town and other South African ports.

The ability to close the entrance to the Baltic Sea should be a paramount consideration, and the fate of the port of Londonderry in North Ireland, which is a base that might be needed in the event of submarine threats in the North Atlantic, is another item for a NATO agenda. If Kissinger cannot talk to West European foreign ministers with any assurance that the U.S. plans to keep a Navy second to none, with Trident missile submarines coming off the ways at critical intervals, he will have little to offer.

KISSINGER, in Brussels to "stress that the Atlantic Alliance remains the cornerstone of American foreign policy," talks about "a new act of vision." But a United States that is unable to project its sea power into the Eastern Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean lanes leading to the Persian Gulf can have no vision that will appeal to Western Europe. Sea power and sea power alone is vital to a guarantee that even the oil of sympathetic Iran will reach Western industrial nations.

If the Soviets can cutt off the oil spigots in the Middle East simply by deploying missile cruisers and atomic submarines in superior force through the Red Sea, Western Europe must, in the long term, seek an accommodation with Moscow.

The "Finlandization" of Western Europe is in the cards if the U.S. refuses the challenge to become the world's strongest blue water power. Adm. Mahan and Teddy Roosevelt would have understood this; the question now is whether Henry Kissinger is as conversant with the works of Mahan as he is with the deliberations of the Congress of Vienna in post-Napoleonic Europe.

Maybe Western Europe doesn't want to be saved from a Russian Bear whose suffocating hug will come from the sea. If that is true, history will be rewritten without benefit of NATO, and Henry Kessinger will live in the books as the last defender of a lost cause.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, DEC. 18

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
A splended day for clearing away recent differences which, if allowed to crystallize, could become real problems. Abit of frank talking could do the trick.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
Judgments of the a.m. could not only be a bit "cloudy" but, if based on overoptimism, could have disappointing results. Your instincts can be trusted after 3 p.m., however.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
A good day for looking into unusual offers — but with a watchful eye. Especially favored: writings, travel, cultural pursuits.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
You know what you want now, so keep after it. Brook interference from no one and insist on the privacy you need to carry out your plans.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Avoid overtaxing yourself — a tendency now. Temper your ambitions and desires with common sense.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
A bit of news received unexpectedly could have a happy impact on your finances; may concern a sound but long-range investment proposition.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Stellar influences excellent! If projects seem to have been going away recently, now's the time to try again. Imagination and ingenuity stimulated.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
New opportunities indicated in many fields — but especially where monetary interests are concerned. A splended time for consolidating your position in this respect.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Don't discuss financial or domestic problems with friends or associates. Some situations are best kept "in the family" — especially now.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Indifference could spoil what should otherwise be a good day. Good opportunities available, but you'll have to seek them out. They won't be left on your doorstep.

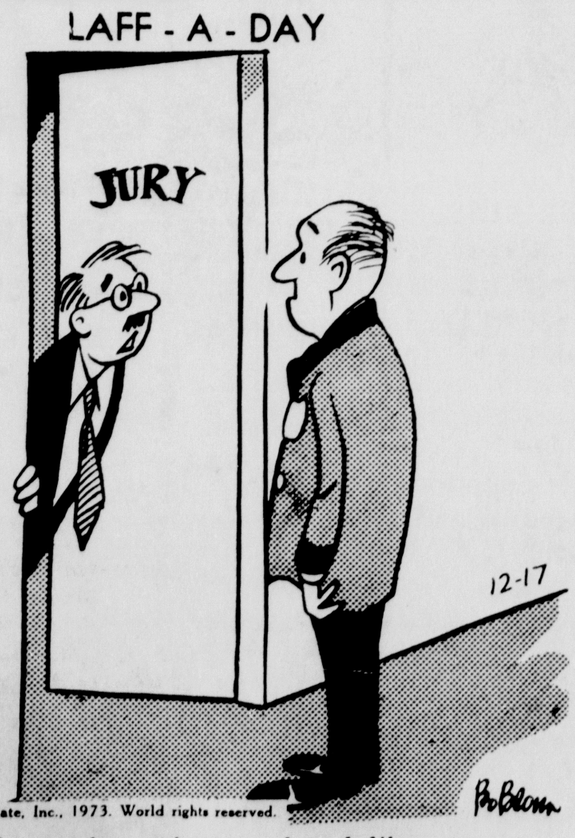

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
With your keenness for detecting flaws and your good humor, you can solve practically all of the "little" quandaries waiting to trip the unwary.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Planetary influences encourage both long-pending and new ventures. Your innate intuition and foresight should be especially keen now.

YOU BORN TODAY are innately energetic, can be a "ball of fire" when the urge takes over; are concise, skillful and effective in endeavors. You were born to do "big" things, are never satisfied with the mediocre. You are highly perceptive and inventive; would make a brilliant business executive, head of a corporation or financier. Your gift for mediation and your powers of persuasiveness make you an outstanding arbiter or negotiator; are also helpful assets to a legal career. In the professional world, you could also choose science, music, literature or playwrighting as a life work. Curb tendencies toward selfishness and too great a desire for comfort and luxury.

Although President George Washington chose the site for the White House, he was never an occupant. John Adams, second President of the U.S., moved in November 1800.

Hal Boyle . . . Martial double-talk drill

NEW YORK (AP) — The art of double-talk reaches its flower in marital conversation.

Double-talk is saying one thing while actually thinking something else. It is the salve of civilization and, of course, without double-talk marriage would be unendurable. If married people started speaking only the truth to each other one fine morning, by nightfall half of them would be divorced — or dead in cold blood.

Here are a few typical examples of marital double-talk. The quoted remark of the speaker is followed by what he really was thinking.

"You look like you had a good sleep last night, dear." — God, why do all women look so homely in the morning? They all come unglued overnight.

"Why don't you shave before going to bed sometime, darling, instead of after you get up? You'd be able to start to work sooner." — And I'd feel less like I was sleeping with a warthog all the time.

"You look pretty peaked, Harry." — Did you have a four-Martini lunch and spend the rest of the afternoon chasing your secretary around your desk?

"You look a little weary yourself, Martha." — Taking catnaps on a sofa all day long must be real tiring to a woman.

"There is no reason at all for you to worry about how your new dentures look. They look simply fine." — It's their sound effects that drive me crazy.

"Your complexion is even prettier now, Grace, than it was the day I led you to the altar." — But why did you have to have two $1,500 face lifts to get the job done?

"It was very thoughtful for you to suggest going to a restaurant tonight, Harry. I did feel like eating out." — And now, my little cheapskate hubby, I'm going to wreck your evening by ordering the $10 steak instead of the $4.50 dinner special.

"When I ask you what you want for Christmas, Harriet, please don't tell me you really don't want anything special." — That means I always have to buy you something that leaves me in hock until April.

"There must be 1,001 ways for a marriage to turn sour, dear, but I'm convinced that there is only one small thing that made our marriage go wrong." — It's you, fathead.

Dear Abby:
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Sister has plenty to hide from fiance

DEAR ABBY: This problem is my sister's. She is a very pretty 45-year-old widow with nine kids. She lives in Naples, Italy. I showed her picture to a widower who lives in Jersey, and he said he wanted to write to her. (My sister was born in the U.S.A. and speaks both English and Italian.) Well, to make a long story short, they corresponded, and he sent her a ticket to visit him here. It was love at first sight. The problem is, my sister told him she had only two kids!

He is going to Naples to marry my sister, and he will surely find out how many kids she has. What do you think he will do when he finds out the truth?

My sister is afraid to tell him. Should I? This is a mess I can't see my way out of.

A SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Tell your sister if she doesn't tell him how many children she has, YOU will, because you feel responsible for having brought them together. And if you helped your sister "hide" seven kids, shame on you.

DEAR ABBY: What's happened to people? Nobody in business gives anything away any more. At Christmas time, in order to show that they appreciated your business, the milkman used to give you a pretty kitchen calendar with the dairy's name on it. The cleaning man would give you a pretty note pad with a pencil to keep by your telephone. (Okay, so it had their telephone number on it.) My beauty parlor used to give me a small bottle of shampoo or perfume, and my grocer used to give my children candy.

Now, nobody you patronize gives you anything. In fact, THEY expect you to give them something. Why?

OLD TIMER

DEAR OLD TIMER: It's one of the penalties of "prosperity." Some others are poor service, inferior quality, and shortages.

DEAR ABBY: My wife has three sisters and two brothers who got together and gave their parents a Christmas gift, a three-month vacation in sunny Florida, at OUR home. (Without even consulting us, I might add.)

My inlaws just called from Montana to give us the good news that the "other children" presented them with two round tickets to Gainesville, good for a three-month stay, and they said that WE would be delighted to have them as our house guests.

Abby, her parents are not easy to get along with. We could take them for three weeks but NOT for three months! They interfere when we discipline our children, and take sides if my wife and I have a disagreement. My wife is more upset over this than I.

If they stay here for three months, we will either end up in the divorce court, or there will be two more cases for the psychiatric ward. What should we do?

UPSET IN FLORIDA

DEAR UPSET: You and your wife had better quickly set her parents straight. Tell them frankly that your time limit for houseguests is three weeks.

THE BETTER HALF

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Excluding the efforts of disc jockeys and politicians, radio humor these days is as rare as an open gas station on Sunday. But there's always an exception.

A syndicated exception is the National Lampoon Comedy Hour, which kicked off in mid-November and now is creating aural confusion once a week on nearly 100 radio stations in the United States.

What prompted the show?

"Greed," said Michael O'Donoghue, editor of National Lampoon magazine, a sharply satirical publication.

O'Donoghue, who serves as creative director of NL's radio proceedings and helps other staffers on the magazine write and perform the show, got serious for a moment.

"What started it for me was that I'd gotten a little tired of putting out a magazine for three years," he said. "I thought it'd be fun to do something different."

It turned out, he added, that this particular something caused a lot more work than envisioned, mainly because NL's troupe spends a lot of time dashing from studio to studio, recording in one, adding sound effects in another and editing it all in yet another.

"We're working 100-hour weeks," he groaned.

Fortunately, he said, Lampoon almost has finished building its own recording studio. When it's completed, the troupe will be able to tape and edit the whole show there and greatly reduce their long hours of dashing about and waiting for studio space.

What is the program like?

"It's 60 minutes of mirth, merriment and mindless hostility," O'Donoghue said. Then he got serious again. "Actually, it's very much the magazine translated into sound.

"It's very fast and staccato, like a radio 'Laugh-In.' It's quite different in pace from the old style of radio. I've listened to that kind and it's really slow.

"I mean, Fibber McGee just walks around in his living room for five minutes."

O'Donoghue, 33, said three basic types of performers appear on the show—Lampoon writers and editors; specialists who do off-screen "voice-overs" for radio and TV commercials, and professional thespians, many drawn from Lampoon's hit off-Broadway show, "The Lemmings."

How's the main response to all the shows aired so far?

"It's just begun," he said. "We have one marriage proposal to Anne Beatts"—a regular on the show—"who is our token woman. That's it."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Poker Face On The Bench?

How neutral does a judge have to be in conducting a trial? That was the issue in The Case of the Smiling Judge.

A man had been found guilty of assault, and his attorney appealed to a higher court on the following ground:

"Just as one of the defense witnesses was telling his story, the judge broke into a smile. The implication was obvious: he thought the witness was lying. Although the judge told the jury not to be influenced by his smile, the damage had already been done. The jury got the message and brought in a verdict of guilty."

However, the appellate court refused to set aside the verdict. The court said the judge's smile was just too minor an element, in an otherwise fair trial, to make the entire proceedings null and void.

OF COURSE, a trial judge is supposed to be as neutral as possible. Ideally, he should keep a poker face at all times, since his facial expressions may well speak as loudly as words.

But the law also recognizes that judges, being only human, cannot be in total control of their emotions. Thus, another appellate court decided it was "most natural" for a judge to grin when a man named Ananias was sworn in as a witness.

On the other hand, a verdict may indeed be overturned on appeal if the trial judge made his feelings too convincingly clear.

In another case, involving a deadly weapons charge, the judge kept referring to the accused as a "graduate of Sing Sing." Again, the jury's guilty verdict was carried to a higher court on grounds of judicial misbehavior.

This time, the verdict was thrown out. Criticizing the trial judge for letting his feelings get out-of-hand, the appellate court said:

"The function of the judge is to preserve the rights of both the people and the accused, not to insure victory or defeat for either (side)."

Lottery panel pushes integrity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The five members of the State Lottery Commission have promised to conduct all meetings publicly to help assure integrity in Ohio's newest venture into legalized gambling.

David F. Leahy of Cleveland, the chairman, said "We have to keep everything out in the open if we expect the public to respect the integrity of this operation."

Another commission member, Richard S. Rust of Cincinnati, put it this way at the panel's organizational meeting in Columbus: "Faith in this commission and the lottery is the prerequisite to the success of this whole operation."

Ohio Perspective

Columbus newsmen questioned the members after they held their first session—with Gov. John J. Gilligan sitting in—at the governor's mansion, with reporters excluded.

Mrs. Bernice MacKenzie of Canton, another member, called it "a get-acquainted session" and insisted the private meeting was for the purpose of agreeing on a chairman to avoid possible embarrassment.

"We didn't want to come here and have someone turn down the nomination. That just makes common sense," Mrs. MacKenzie told the press at the first formal session in the governor's cabinet room. Leahy was elected without discussion or opposition.

Leahy, a retired executive of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said he and the other members were "starting from scratch" and intended to study lottery operations in the eight other states that have them.

"We're going to pick and choose from the best," he said.

"In a way," he said, "It's like opening a new store. You have to be sure about your personnel, your location, and all the other things that make a successful business."

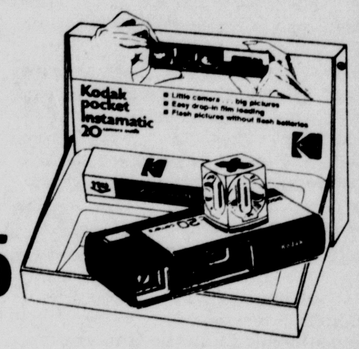

Leahy said he realizes the commission members are going to be under pressures, not only in the selection of an executive director and a site for state lottery headquarters, but also from consultants and people wanting to sell lottery tickets.

Anyone seeking employment or financial gain from the lottery operation, Leahy said, will be subject to "a thorough review, a presentation, and another review" before a decision is made. All this, he said, will be done out in the open.

The chairman indicated it may be months before the first tickets are sold. "We're not going to be stampeded. . . we're going to have the best lottery in the nation," he said.

JUNIPERPERPER

The Elf Who Couldn't Do Anything Right

CHAPTER 8
By Bob Boyle

After lunch, instead of napping Juniperperper walked into the recreation room of Santa House and watched Sunny Sun Fish entertain some of the elves.

The fish poked his head out of the water and blew a stream of water right on Juniperperper.

"Hey, what are you doing," said Juniperperper as he and the other elves laughed

"That's his way of saying, Hello," Santa explained. "Now watch him."

Sunny Sun Fish started swimming around the bowl and then, very unfish like, he turned over on his back and did the backstroke. He then jumped out of the water and grabbed a piece of bread which one of the elves held up.

"He's a real clown," Santa said.

"Well," Santa said. "It's time to get back to work. After that workout, I'm sure Sunny Sun Fish needs a rest, too."

Santa put his hand on Juniperperper's shoulder and said, "Okay, little fellow. It's off to the toy fire engine shop for us."

"Gee," Santa," he replied. "I'm scared now. I sure hope I don't mess things up in the toy fire engine factory."

"I'm sure you won't, Juniperperper," Santa replied. "That little error in the bicycle shop could have happened to anyone on the first day on the job. Just don't worry about it. I'm confident that you'll do okay."

Santa and Juniperperper entered the toy fire engine building and Juniperperper's eyes popped.

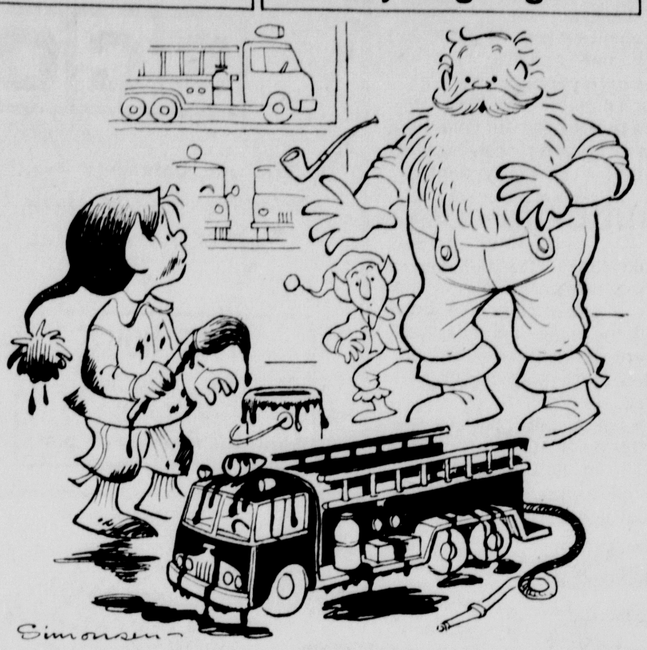

"Gee, Santa," he said. "I've never seen so many toy fire engines in my life. There must be thousands and thousands of them."

Santa called over Jasper and said, "Here is Juniperperper."

"Now take Juniperperper to the workshop," Santa said. "and let him start assembling the toy fire engines."

"Okay," Jasper said, and the two elves went off together.

"Here we are," Jasper said. "Here are the wheels, the steering wheels, the toy light and the toy siren. Put them all together and fasten them to the engine and we'll be all set. Do you have tools?"

"What did I do wrong Santa?"

"No, I don't," Juniperperper replied. "What can I use?"

"Use the ones on the bench," Jasper replied. "That's what they are there for. Now, lots of luck. I must make my rounds and I'm sure when I get back you'll have the toy fire engine all assembled."

When Jasper left, Juniperperper thought, "I sure hope I do this right."

He got the wheels and placed them.

He took the tiny steering wheel and put it on the engine.

He attached the little siren

He placed the little red flashing light

"Mmmm, it looks good," he thought. Then he looked at the shelf and saw a can of paint.

"Boy, oh, boy, I know what I'll do," he thought. "I'll paint the fire engine."

He reached over the bench and got a brush and began to paint.

He painted the wheels.

He painted the steering wheel.

He painted the siren.

He painted the light.

When he was finished he looked at his work and thought, "Gee, this looks beautiful. Santa will be so proud of me."

Then Jasper came into the room.

"My goodness," he yelled. "What happened here?"

Jasper ran to the red phone, picked it up and said, "Santa you better come over here right away. We're having an emergency."

Lickity split, Santa ran to the toy fire engine factory. "What's wrong, what's wrong?" he said as he entered.

"My, oh, my, oh, my," Santa said. "I've never seen anything like that in my life."

"What did I do wrong, Santa?" Juniperperper asked.

"Well, Juniperperper," Santas aid. "For one thing, we don't paint our fire engines black. They should be red. And, another thing, we don't paint over the light. And, we don't paint the siren or it wouldn't work. And, the toy fire engine should have four wheels, not three.

"Oh, Juniperperper, I'm sorry," Santa said. "But I don't think you're ready for the toy fire engine shop, either.

"Let's go back to the house, and we'll see what we can do for tomorrow."

"Well, you're from the Magic Snow Forest, so I bet you are an expert on skiing. So tomorrow I'll put you in the ski factory. And just so things go right I'll put you in the test area. That means you'll ski all day."

"Swell, Santa," Juniperperper said. But he really didn't mean it. He didn't have the heart to tell Santa he couldn't ski.

'Christmas in Toyland' Y-Teen dance theme

'Christmas in Toyland' was the theme for the annual holiday dance of Washington Senior High School Y-Teens, which took place Saturday evening in the school cafeteria. The cafeteria was decorated in a Christmas motif, with red, green and white streamers and snowflakes suspended from the ceiling.

A lighted Christmas tree was in one corner with toys underneath, in keeping with the theme, "Christmas in Toyland." A large Santa and reindeer was in the entrance way where Y-Teens and their guessts arrived. Of the 184 present, the girls, in their long formal gowns, and the fellas, in formal attire, were very pretty.

Miss Janine Begin is Y-Teens president. Special credit was given to Pam Hart and Jackie Johns, for the decorations. Miss Sharon Kellogg, Y-Teens adviser, was assisted by Miss Doppleb and Miss Karaffa, teachers. Several parents were chaperones for the evening. The sophomores were in charge of favors, which were candy canes with horse heads. The Junior Y-Teens were in charge of refreshments, cookies, sandwiches and red and green punch.

Gifts for children at the Children's Home were collected at the Y-Gradale Sorority's Christmas party in the Terrace Lounge for delivery later. Since there was no gift exchange, the members held a "white elephant" gift exchange among themselves.

Joining the members for the party and singing of Christmas Carols, accompanied by Mrs. Loren Noble, were the sorority's advisor, Mrs. John Rhoads, and associate members, Mrs. Emerson Marting and Mrs. Paul Pope.

Gasoline shortage hits road 'oasis'

SALEM, Ill. (AP) — About a tankful of gasoline south of Chicago is an oasis in the desert of Interstate 57. The signs say: "Salem, gas-food-lodging, next right."

But on Sunday, the cluster of service stations, diners and a motel around the interchange might as well have been a mirage.

Despite President Nixon's plea for Sunday closings of gas stations, two of the three service stations were open. But they were doing so little business they were losing money — even with gas selling for 51.9 cents a gallon.

At the Coffa Cupee Cafe, waitresses Kay Spencer and Carolyn Gray tended eight customers scattered among the 58 seats. Normally the place would be packed, they said.

"Seventy-five per cent of our business is off the interstate," Mrs. Gray said. "You can see what it is doing."

"We used to be open 24 hours, seven days a week," Mrs. Spencer said. "Now we close every night at 10 except for Fridays and Saturdays. The boss has had to let half the help go, and he's cut the inventory by half."

Leon Sullen, 26, running the Standard station next door, said: "The interstate's dead."

Sullen checked his sales for the morning and found he had sold about 400 gallons by midday. He doubted he would pump 800 more that day.

Before Sunday closings, he pumped about 3,500 gallons. Two weeks ago, the first Sunday after the President made his request, the station dispensed 400 gallons.

Next door is a Texaco station. George Brown, 54, has been pumping gas for 17 years but has closed his station on Sundays.

"This Sunday closing is really doing what they want it to do," he said. "It cut our business right half in two. It will save millions of gallons of fuel. I'm in favor of closing."

Codie D. Guthrie, manager of the Holiday Inn, said Thanksgiving and Christmas bookings, plus steady business from salesmen, have helped him ride out the ripples of the fuel crisis. But he's noticed drop-ins and tourists aren't showing up.

"I feel that it will affect business," he said. "But I won't be able to tell until after the holiday."

City crews to install meters in new Main St. lot

The Washington C.H. street department will start installing parking meter posts in the new city parking lot, E. Main St., this week.

Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department, said that job heads the list for street workers this week.

The Park & Shop parking lot, purchased by City Council at its meeting last Wednesday, has a total of 54 parking spaces.

The city street workers will also be clearing brush from alleys and working on the Belle Aire drainage ditch.

Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County Engineer, said county road crews will be doing ditching work along the York Road in Perry Township, and cutting brush along various county roads. Wagner said county crews also will be occupied with snow and ice removal.

State Highway Department workmen will be occupied with ditch work on Ohio 41-N and possibly on old Ohio 753, according to Eugene Fitzpatric, superintendent for the Ohio Department of Transportation in Fayette County.

Fitzpatric said state crews also will be berming on Ohio 753, south of Good Hope and cutting brush in various locations. He said three men are still manning an electricade (flashing arrow) at the I-71-U.S. 35 interchange, and the state trash crews will also be in operation.

New process used to trap sulfur in coal

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — Researchers at West Virginia University are working with a process that combines lime with pulverized coal to trap polluting sulfur in coal ashes.

The process, known as Sulfurtrain, is being developed in WVU's Coal Research Bureau by technician William H. Buttermore. Other processes to remove sulfur from coal usually occur before burning or trapping it in smokestacks after burning.

In Buttermore's experiments, as the coal burns the calcium in the lime combines with the coal's sulfur to form calcium sulfate. It, in turn, is left behind with other inert materials in coal and forms ash.

Buttermore says the process has been successful on a laboratory scale and he hopes to be able to apply it to commercial operations, such as coal-fired electrical generating plants.

Goldwater raps House members

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has called for the House leadership to "shut up or put up" in the consideration of impeachment proceedings against President Nixon.

In an interview with the Christian Science Monitor published today, the Arizona Republican and former presidential candidate said it is imperative that consideration of impeachment be concluded rapidly.

"They're (members of the House Judiciary Committee) not playing around with the Republican party and the Democratic party — they're playing around with the American people," Goldwater said.

He criticized Nixon for failing to move quickly enough to dispel doubts about the President's innocence in the Watergate affair.

"He chose to dibble and dabble and argue on very nebulous grounds like executive privilege and confidentiality, when all the American people wanted to know was the truth," Goldwater said.

If the President had openly discussed the issue, "I think Watergate would have been history by now and Mr. Nixon would be way back up on the popularity poll," Goldwater said.

The President may have been slow to respond to the Watergate issue because of his hesitancy to accept advice from others, the senator said.

"The President, I think, thinks of himself as the supreme politician in this country. And being a loner, I think he sits by himself and tells himself what he's going to do.

"Now we went through this gesture period of having congressmen and senators down to see him, but it seems to have ended. And this is what I was afraid of — that it would be a one-pitch goal and that would end it.

"And as a result, he's not getting advice. That's his problem. He's not getting it. And when he gets it, he doesn't listen to it."

Gal rides horse through Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Riding a horse 50 miles in 19-degree weather on a crosscountry path including Cincinnati's slums in post-midnight hours was "just a good opportunity" for a youthful school teacher.

It was also the last fling for country girl Jan McConner while the 23-year-old biology instructor adjusts to city life.

After her 17-hour romp was over Sunday night, she said, "I'm not a bit sore, just my feet.

"In an endurance ride like this you have to walk the horse a lot and city pavement is tough on the feet."

The Salem, Ohio native has lived with horses since she was 10 in the rich, rolling farm country of eastern Ohio. She even stabled her gelding, Jadi near the campus while attending Miami University at Oxford.

Since moving into a Cincinnati apartment and launching a teaching career, "I just didn't have the opportunity to ride anymore.

City life is really nice but it doesn't have the space or the peace of the country," she said. "That's why I decided I'd have to sell Jadi."

Trouble began when Jim Moore of New Richmond, Ohio showed up at Jadi's boarding barn last week. Jadi wouldn't budge.

So, Jan decided to ride him. "It was a good opportunity," she said, "I've always wanted to take a cross country ride."

The route ran 50 miles from Butler County northwest of Cincinnati, through the city of 452,000 and 17 miles to the southeast along the Ohio River.

She made the first leg Saturday—about 23 miles to her apartment. Neighbors stared. They thought it odd to have a horse tied all night to the shrubbery in front.

Early Sunday before daybreak, she was off again through the city, clip-clopping through a number of high crime areas.

"A policeman stopped me and kept asking if I knew what I was doing," she said. "He had some kids in the cruiser he'd arrested and they cracked up."

There were a few scary moments.

Once Jadi ran off breaking a bridle, cars slammed on brakes to avoid hitting them from the rear. She had to walk him across a half-mile viaduct with a whistling train moving underneath.

"One funny thing happened," she said. "There was this drunk staggering down a street singing. All at once he saw me, shut up, did a double take, and straightened up and walked off just as straight as you please."

She said her motives for owning a horse were not necessarily ecological, although she believes in conservation as a biologist.

MT wins 77-73, stays atop SCOL

TWO OF THE TWENTY-TWO — Jeff King (34) released the ball over Mike Sharkey (41) for two of his 22 points in Saturday nights game between Miami Trace and Hillsboro. Panthers won 77-73. Waiting for the rebound is Steve Mowery (22), Roger Jewett (33) and Kevin Bailey (23).

Reiber, King lead Panthers in third straight SCOL win

By DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Although the crowd was scarce this Saturday night for basketball at Miami Trace high schooi, plaudits were heeped upon both teams by the few fans in attendance, as Miami Trace ignited in the fourth quarter to swipe it's third South Central Ohio League win 77-73 from a run-and-shoot Hillsboro.

Three quarters had passed by and Miami Trace was trailing 57-53 when the action started flowing in the Panthers direction. Two minutes clicked off the clock in the final period before the scoring pace was picked up by Miami Trace's Phil Skinner. Skinner hit on two shots from the charity stripe with 6:37 left in the fourth quarter.

From that moment, Hillsboro got one point from the foul line and the Panthers collected five unanswered points before Hillsboro's Mike Sharkey hit on a seven foot jumper to bring the score 61-60 Panthers favor. A favor that Miami Trace would never relinquish again as Hillsboro lost it's second SCOL game of the season.

Miami Trace opened the first quarter with a 10-3 lead but Hillsboro reeled off 9 straight points on steals, utilizing the full court press, to take the lead 12-10. High scorer in the SCOL Dave Persinger, scored a quick bucket followed by a layup from Jeff King to put Miami Trace back in front but the lead didn't last long.

Hillsboro's leading scorer, and now possibly the leading scorer in the SCOL, Kevin Bailey struck the nets for a blitzing eight points in less than three minutes to give Hillsboro a 24-18 first quarter lead.

Miami Trace poured on the defense in the second quarter with a full court trap press. The press worked well in the early moments of the second stanza but Miami Trace turned the ball over just as much as they collected it. Bad passes and three second violations doomed the Panthers in the period before intermission and the score was knotted 39-39 at halftime.

Third quarter action had Hillsboro's remarkable shooter Bailey, pouring in points from every imaginable spot on the court to give the Indians a 57-53 lead heading into the fourth quarter.

The trap press by Miami Trace really became effective in the final period as Hillsboro could manage only 16 points compared to 24 points for Miami Trace. Continually Hillsboro coughed the ball up due to the press put on by the Panthers.

Although the press was most effective by Miami Trace, the fine shooting of Randy Reiber and Jeff King kept the Panthers in the game on points. Reiber's smooth shooting jumpers fell through the nets for 25 points and King countered with 22 on close in shots from well positioned rebounds.

An amazing statistic was formed in this tightly fought contest. Both the Panthers and Hillsboro connected on 30 of 74 field goals. The difference in points lay at the foul line. Miami Trace put together 17 of 26 and Hillsboro tallied on 13 of 20 shots from the charity stripe.

Rebounds went in Miami Traces favor, 45-34 with Persinger, Reiber and King collecting the majority of missed shots for the Panthers.

Four pro grid teams grab playoff berths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland Raiders are in the National Football League playoffs for the sixth time in seven years. And one reason is they were ready when Denver Coach John Ralston gave it the old college try with a trick play he used when he coached at Stanford University.

And while things went wrong for Denver in its bid for the club's first playoff appearance, everything went right for Buffalo's O.J. Simpson in Buffalo's 34-14 victory over the New York Jets. Simpson became the first man to rush for 2,000 yards in a single season — and he even picked up two yards after the game was over when NFL statisticans rechecked and found an error.

Denver was trailing 14-10 in the third quarter of its game for the American Conference West title at Oakland and was without starting quarterback Charley Johnson, who was injured, when Ralston ordered a run off a fake punt-on-four down with the ball on the Denver 48. The play was stopped for no gain, and Oakland moved quickly to its clinching touchdown in a 21-17 victory.

Three other teams gained the playoffs on the final day of the regular season — Cincinnati outlasted Houston 27-24 to win the AFC Central; Dallas blasted St. Louis 30-3 to win the National Conference East, and Washington topped Philadelphia 38-20 to earn the NFC wild-card berth.

Next weekend's playoff pairings are:

—Saturday: Washington at Minnesota, the NFC Central Division winner that trounced the New York Giants 31-7 Sunday, and Pittsburgh, the AFC wildcard team that beat San Francisco 37-14 Saturday, at Oakland.

—Sunday: Cincinnati at Miami, the defending Super Bowl champion and AFC East winner that blanked Detroit 31-0 Saturday, and Los Angeles, NFC West king and 30-17 winner over Cleveland Sunday, at Dallas.

In other final-day action, Atlanta edged New Orleans 14-10; Kansas City trounced San Diego 33-6; Baltimore nipped New England 18-13, and Green Bay downed Chicago 21-0.

Oakland's victory sets up a playoff rematch against Pittsburgh. The Steelers beat the Raiders 9-7 in 1972 postseason play when Franco Harris grabbed a deflected pass and ran for a touchdown in the closing seconds.

Cowboys 30, Cardinals 30

"We're still basically a running team," said Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach who did a lot to change that image by passing for 256 yards and three touchdowns against St. Louis.

Rams 30, Browns 17

Two Rams set team records and John Hadl passed for two touchdowns against Cleveland, Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox had other things on his mind — "Right now, tonight, tomorrow and the rest of the week we'll be thinking about Dallas.

The club record setters were kicker David Ray, with three field goals and three conversions for a season total of 130 points, and Lawrence McCutcheon, who ran for 83 yards for a total of 1,097. The 12 victories, against two losses, was also a Rams' record.

Redskins 38, Eagles 20

"We just weren't getting execution before (Sunday)," said Washington running back Larry Brown after gaining a total of 255 yards against Philadelphia and catching three of Billy Kilmer's four touchdown passes. "We got it today."

Vikings 31, Giants 7

Fran Tarkenton's clutch passing and two interceptions, which set up touchdowns, keyed the victory for Minnesota, as the Vikings tied a club best with a 12-2 record.

Falcons-Saints

Atlanta, which had beaten New Orleans 62-7 in the season opener, got by the Saints this time on Eddie Ray's two oneyard touchdown runs.

Chiefs 33, Chargers 6

Ed Podolak, Jeff Kinney and Wendell Hayes scored touchdowns on short runs and Jan Stenerud kicked four field goals in Kansas City's romp past San Diego.

Colts 18, Patriots 13

Baltimore's Marty Domres and New England's Jim Plunkett each passed for two touchdowns in a driving snow, and Lydell Mitchell rushed for 142 yards on 34 carries for a Baltimore club season record of 963.

Packers 21, Bears 0

Green Bay's Jerry Tagge threw his first two touchdowns passes as a pro and John Brockington rushed for 142 yards against the punchless Bears.

MT wrestlers finish seventh

Miami Trace's wrestling team in its season debut, finished seventh in the rugged eight-team Franklin Heights Invitational wrestling tournament held Saturday.

New head coach Dick Hill was generally pleased with the Panthers' performance Saturday since it was their first outing of the winter campaign and most of the other teams entered had competed in at least three tournaments.

The Panthers got sparkling performances from a trio of grapplers. Alan Fennig, a senior co-captain, placed second in the 126-pound division, Donald Dunton placed second in the 175-pound bracket and Gary Cobb landed third place honors in the 132-pound class.

Hilliard won the match, Columbus West was second and Columbus Bexley was third. Host Franklin Heights notched a fourth place finish followed in order by Utica, Teays Valley, Miami Trace and Bloom Carroll.

No-shows increase in NFL, report shows

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 1 million ticketholders stayed away from National Football League games this season, the first under the lifting of the television blackout, a league spokesman said Sunday night.

This final weekend of the season had an estimated 190,000 no-shows, according to the NFL.

Bengals barely defeat Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals didn't use steamroller tactics in beating the Houston Oilers 27-24 Sunday to win the American Football Conference Central Division championship, but they got the job done anyway.

"We won the game and the divisional title, and you can slice that anyway you want to," an obviously tired Bengal Coach Paul Brown said after Ken Anderson's three touchdown passes salvaged the Cincinnati victory.

"We caught a team that was emotionally aroused because of those two guys we traded but that's just normal," Brown said.

Brown referred to Houston running backs Paul Robinson and Fred Willis, who came to Houston last year in a trade with the Bengals.

Robinson, inactive much of this year, gained 100 yards on 20 carries in one of the Oilers' best offensive showings of their season, which ended with a 1-13 record.

Willis, an Oiler spark all season, gained 85 yards rushing and caught three passes for 51 yards to win the AFC receiving title with 57 catches for the season.

The Bengals' answer was Anderson's touchdown passes, including bombs of 77 and 67 yards to rookie Isaac Curtis and a 10-yard touchdown to tight end Bob Trumpy. Cincinnati also scored on field goals of 18 and 40 yards by Horst Muhlmann.

The determined Oilers, closing out a dismal season on an encouraging note, led the Bengals 10-3 in the second quarter and rallied with two late touchdowns to make it close after Cincinnati had taken a 27-10 lead.

Willis scored two touchdowns, Robinson added another and Skip Butler kicked an 11-yard field goal for the Oilers. Willis and Robinson each scored on one-yard plunges in Houston's fourth-quarter surge.

"I guess we took them for granted," Trumpy said of the Oilers. "Once the Oilers all get pointed in the right direction, they'll be a good football team. We overlooked that fact.

"We can't go down there sitting on our heels," said Bengal running back Essex Johnson, who missed a 1,000-yard rushing season by three yards.

Two OSU gridders in Hula Bowl berths

HONOLULU (AP) — Two Ohio State University football players will have positions on the East team in the 28th annual Hula Bowl, Jan. 6.

They will be John Hicks, a lineman on the offensive team, and Randy Gradishar, a linebacker for the defense.

Simpson smashes yardage record

NEW YORK (AP) — "Maybe it's my record," O.J. Simpson said Sunday, but I had a lot of help."

Simpson, who established a single-season ground-gaining record of 2,003 yards by piling up 200 yards as the Buffalo Bills beat the New York Jets 34-14, then introduced the men he said "made it all possible," the Bills' offensive linemen: center Mike Montler, guards Reggie McKenzie and Joe Delamielleure, tackles Dave Foley and Donnie Green and tight end Paul Seymour.

"These guys were just fantastic," said Simpson. "They kept blasting holes open for me, and all I had to do was follow them through. That record was a team effort — no running back can get 2,000 yards without a lot of help."

With their help, the irrepressible Simpson broke Jim Brown's 10-year-old record of 1,863 yards in one season, set in 1963. He did it with a six-yard run during the first period, and when the record was announced nobody was happier than McKenzie, who strutted about the field with both arms upraised in a victory sign.

Simpson then went after the incredible 2,000-yard barrier, finally breaking it on a seven-yard run with 5:56 left to play. Everyone thought he had 2,001, but NFL statisticians after the game uncovered two more yards to make it 2,003.

The Bills streamed onto the frozen, snow-covered field, hoisted O.J. to their shoulders and carried him to the bench in triumph.

"He's a helluva man," said McKenzie. "I mean, who else do you know would take the entire line to a national press conference, the way he did? He's just beautiful.

"I was visiting with him last summer, and he said, 'Wouldn't it be nice to get 1,700 yards?' I just told him, 'Let's get two grand instead, and really set the world on fire.' Now we have, and it's beautiful."

Bills coach Lou Saban attributed at least part of Simpson's success to the rapport he has with his linemen.

"O.J. is surrounded by a young offensive line, and he's young enough to be part of them. While they were learning, O.J. was carrying the burden. Now they work beautifully together."

Commings takes over at Iowa

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — The University of Iowa hopes a player from its winning past can coach the Hawkeye football team out of a 12-year drought.

Bob Commings, until now a high school coach at Massillon, Ohio, was lineman on Iowa's 1956 Big Ten Conference championship team that beat Oregon State in the Rose Bowl. He arrived in Iowa City Sunday to take the reins of a team that finished the 1973 season 0-11.

Commings, 40, was named to the post Saturday, replacing Frank Lauterbur who was fired Nov. 20 after refusing to make changes in his coaching staff.

"The people I've talked with tell me there is material at Iowa," Commings said.

UCLA Bruins remain unbeatable combo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The UCLA story: If one man doesn't beat you, the other one will.

"I was just happy that the players could withstand adversity," said UCLA basketball Coach John Wooden after his Bruins had defeated North Carolina State 84-66 Saturday and captured their 79th straight victory.

The one man is 6-foot-11 Bill Walton, who sat on the bench for 21 minutes after he was called for four fouls early in the first half — "adversity" in Wooden's words.

The other man is 6-7 Keith Wilkes who scored 27 points and held his opposite number, 6-4 All-American David Thompson, to just 17 points, including seven of 20 from the floor.

"I don't like his shot at all," said Wooden of Wilkes' stiffarm, over-the-head jumper. "I just like the way it goes through the hoop."

But Wooden didn't feel Wilkes' performance was a surprise, even though the 20-year-old grandson of a Baptist minister has played in Walton's shadow most of his college basketball career.

Both teams came out visibly tight — UCLA putting its 78-game winning streak on the line and No. 2 N.C. State playing what it must have figured its toughest game of season.

At one point, North Carolina State took a 23-20 lead and at halftime led 33-32.

Walton finally came off the bench in the second half with the score tied 54-54. And behind the shooting and rebounding of Walton and Wilkes, the Bruins took a 73-56 lead in five minutes.

In other games involving the Top Ten Saturday, No. 3 Indiana beat Ball State 86-62, No. 7 Marquette defeated Minnesota 68-50, No. 8 Providence edged Austin Peay 94-92, No. 9 Louisville dropped Florida State 90-78, and No. 10 Memphis State breezed past East Texas State 99-76.

No. 12 Long Beach State beat Long Island University 60-46, Seaton Hall dropped No. 17 San Francisco 89-83, 15th-ranked Kansas State beat Brigham Young 95-85, No. 19 Jacksonville defeated Oral Roberts 91-86, and No. 20 Southern California got by Arizona State 79-70.

Wilkes' shot from underneath opened a 42-35 wedge early in the in the final half, and two more baskets by the forward made it 50-44 with less than 13 minutes left.

"You don't have a great basketball team like UCLA's if you are a one-man team," said North Carolina State Coach Norm Sloan. "They did not wilt under pressure. They have been there before and they know what it is like.

MT reserves win 53-42

The Miami Trace reserves, behind the shooting of Greg Cobb and the rebounding of Randy Rhonemous, outscored the Hillsboro reserved 33-22 in the second half to win it's fourth game of the year 53-42 Saturday night.

With the score standing 20-20 starting the third quarter Miami Trace used a full court press to intimidate the visiting Indians. Twelve times Hillsboro turned the ball over to Miami Trace in trying to get the ball down the court.

Even though the Panthers only led by one point going into the fourth quarter the tempo of the game had started to change.

Cobb, who was held to eight points in the first half, started getting the offensive rebound and scoring from close range. When Cobb wasn't scoring in close he was hitting from the foul line due to fails on Hillsboro's part. The super sophomore ended his nights work with 22 game high points and a pocketfull of rebounds.

But the big difference in the game came in the fourth quarter when the lanky Rhonemous forced Hillsboro to take bad shots from outside and to miss easy shots by his towering heighth. When the shots were missed by the Indians, Rhonemous was there to retrieve the ball and start a Miami Trace fast break. In all, Miami Trace out rebounded Hillsboro 38-28.

Along with Cobb's 22 points the Panthers received good showing from Rod Garringer with seven, Alan Connors with six and Rhonemous also chipped in six. The Indians were led by Barry Zink with 14 points.

Caracas subway seen as transit woes aid

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — They call it the "highway of the poor" (autopista de los pobres) and although still in the planning and argument stage, it is seen as a solution to urgent public transit needs in this traffic-choked Venezuelan capital.

The highway — so dubbed by President Rafael Caldera — is a proposed subway system which would link the ends of the long and narrow city, providing fast and cheap transportation for its two million inhabitants.

It would ease the plight of those who now must spend hours daily traveling to and from work aboard buses and taxis which compete with an estimated 300,000 private automobiles on the city's jammed streets and modern but overtaxed freeway system.

Largely to blame for the city's traffic and transit problems are its topography and a growth rate which has doubled the population in little more than a decade.

SET IN A narrow valley hemmed in by mountains on the north and south, Caracas is only two to three miles wide in places, but stretches more than 17 miles from end to end. Luxury homes, apartment buildings and shanty towns climb the hillsides.

The bulk of traffic moves along a skyscraper and freeway-lined central corridor which contains 44 per cent of the city's employment and 31 per cent of its inhabitants.

Caracas already contains 20 per cent of Venezuela's total population of 10 million and provides 22 per cent of the country's employment.

The subway project, long under study, currently rests in Congress, which must approve financing. Project backers, including Caldera's Social Christian government, express hope that funds will be approved next year despite politically-inspired opposition and the arguments of those lawmakers who feel that priority should be given to construction of low-cost housing.

PLANNERS say the principal line would cost the quivalent of $293 million while the entire five-line system would run a staggering $698 million. They point out that costs rise by nearly $12 million for each year that construction is delayed.

The Venezuelan government began studying a mass transit system in 1947 and a Ministerial Transportation Office (OMT) was created in 1963 to make a more thorough investigation and select the best system.

A monorail was studied and rejected as impractical for a city developing as rapidly as Caracas. Obtaining rights of way would have been costly and complicated in the space-short city, planners say.

OMT experts finally agreed that the best solution would be an air-conditioned subway capable of carrying 40,000 passengers an hour along the central corridor.

Tucson displays Ditmars lizard

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Scientists had to stir around in the stomach of a lizard preserved 75 years to come up with the latest attraction at the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum here.

The Ditmars Horned Lizard was discovered in the desert of Sonora, Mexico, in 1897 by Raymond Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the New York Zoological Park. It was declared a new species in 1910, but no new specimen was found for three quarters of a century.

The M.D. Robinson of the University of Arizona combined records of an 1890 lizard-collecting expedition with clues taken from the stomach of one of the preserved reptiles.

Identification of ingested grasses, pebbles and insect remains helped scientists pinpoint the creature's habitat and rediscover the Ditmars population.

"This is the first time this species has ever been displayed publicly," said Mervin W. Larson, museum director.

Drills studded with hundreds of coarse diamonds are preferred for boring oil wells, because the bits do not have to be drawn up thousands of feet for frequent replacement.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

It is not easy to make six clubs, even if you see all four hands. But the fact is that the slam can be made against any defense, and anyone willing to attempt the feat is welcome to the job.

The deal was composed back in the 50's by a player named Chien-Hwa Wang, of Peking. He was attempting to illustrate what he described as a clash squeeze, but by any name at all his solution is indeed a thing of beauty.

West leads the king of hearts, East contributing the queen, and next plays a low heart to East's nine, which declarer ruffs.

South cashes the A-K of trumps and then the ace of diamonds, West producing the ten. Now, abandoning his plan to ruff a diamond in dummy, which would prove fatal in the actual hand, South plays two more rounds of trumps to produce this position:

South plays his lat trump and West, who cannot spare a spade or a diamond, discards the ace of hearts as dummy contributes a spade and East a diamond.

East then falls victim to a squeeze when declarer cashes the K-Q-A of spades in that order. Whatever East discards on the last spade, South is sure to win the rest of the tricks.

Gout Comes in Various Forms

I have been put on an anti-gout diet because my blood showed high uric acid.

Is it possible to have gout without any symptoms?

Mr. F.G., Tex.

Dear Mr. G.:

As more and more information accumulates about gout it becomes apparent that this is a disease of metabolism which is far more complex than previously suspected.

At one time, the public always conceived the person with gout as an overweight, over-indulged tycoon sitting with his foot elevated and his big toe swathed in bandages.

This portrait is false. As a matter of act, a gouty disorder has many facets and occurs in people of all social and economic levels.

Gout is a disturbance of the manufacture, accumulation and the secretion of uric acid in the body. A gouty tendency may exist in a great many people without any gross evidence of disease. It may be completely symptomless until an acute episode occurs.

During a routine blood study the uric acid level may be high. When this is found, even in the absence of any symptoms, treatment can be started to abort the onset of painful joints in the body.

Many cases of early gout can be controlled by diet alone. Certain foods, including kidney, liver, sweetbreads, anchovies, sardines, and gravy extracts should be avoided. These foods are high in purine from which uric acid is produced.

I get unbearable pain when I come down in an airplane. Can the cause for this be traced?

Mr. H.N., Calif.

Dear Mr.:

The Eustachian tube, which runs from the back of the nose to the middle ear, normally is a clear passageway for the free flow of air. Air that enters into the outer ear balances the pressure on both sides of the eardrum.

When air pressure changes are increased, as during a flight, this balance is changed and pain may result.

People who have had previous infections of the eardrums are more susceptible because scar tissue may interfere with the elasticity or the ear drum.

Infections of the nose, sinusitis, pharyngitis, allergies, and, in children, large adenoids, may obstruct the opening to the Eustachian tube and cause pain during a flight.

Careful examination can usually pinpoint the reason for the problem you describe.

SCOUT TROOP 67

Patrol Leader Jeff Robinette discussed the last campout and hike near Cincinnati at the last meeting of Scout Troop 67 at Jeffersonville. The 10-mile cross-country hike and campout were held at the Southern Ohio Dog and Game Preserve.

The next campout will be in conjunction with a 16-mile hike Jan. 11-13 on the Logan Trail.

The next meeting will not be held until Jan. 2 because of the many activities of Christmastime. The Scouts were encouraged to work for their advancements during the holidays in preparation for the semi-annual Court of Honor Jan. 27.

Much of the last meeting centered on a karate training demonstration by Glenn Jacobson, an MTHS teacher who holds the black belt. He was assisted by three karate students as he explained the various steps of self-defense. The group then proceeded to break boards and concrete blocks with their hands and feet. Jacobson also broke several concrete blocks with his head.
